To refresh is to make positive changes in life, to restore spirit and enthusiasm, and to create this outlook for others. Students came back to Port Huron High School in the fall ready to meet new teachers, new classmates, and for the underclassmen, new graduation requirements.

To refresh is to think outside of the box, to move forward with new innovations and designs, but still keep old traditions. New clubs sprung from this mode of thought, including the Forensics Club and the Be Nice (or else) Club. Many clubs were re-energized with new advisors taking over the helms of the Pokémon Club, Yearbook, and Student Council.

To refresh is symbolic of Port Huron High School's pride and excellence. The splatters on each page, made of the dominate school color, red, helped refresh the white space and add a modernized look. Many sports teams also refreshed their appearance, by switching the traditional white or red background color of jerseys and t-shirts to black in hopes of updating their looks. Due to his significant change, many students created new ways to show their pride such as the "Black Out". Academics was also rejuvenated with the addition of new teachers.

The 2010-2011 school year was a refreshing change from the beginning to a new decade of excellence without minimizing look through the pages of this book, refresh your memory.

annual PH vs. PHN football game brought everyone's pride to a high. Riding on that pride, the Tribe stayed strong throughout the year, cheering on the different athletic teams. Big Reds took pride in their achievements, showing their skills on the stage, in the work place, and in the classroom. Students sang their hearts out for PH Idol and West Side Story, and brightened the school with their colorful Spirit of Christmas costumes and spirit week attire. Neon Night and the senior prom invigorated pride in students, making them excited for more.

"Go! Mambo! Go! Mambo! Go!"

The rivalry between the Jets and the Sharks was eminent during the Port Huron High School's Drama Club production of West Side Story. After hours of dancing and singing practice, students swirled on stage to the music of Leonard Bernstein and Stephen Sondheim.

Dancing to songs like "Mambo" and "Somewhere", the cast wowed the audience with difficult flips and lifts. The audience was equally amazed by the singing talents of the main cast members. Cheyenne Bolt '10 and junior Zachary Pashenee played the title roles of Tony and Maria. Performing the parts of Riff and Bernardo, the two gang leaders, were Ryon Burrell '12 and Nathaniel Jackson '10. Due to the lack of male participants, the Drama Club had to look to the administration for help. Superintendent Mr. H. Ron Wollen, school board Trustee Mr. Garth Kriewall, and Mr. Jim Chadwell all showed their acting chops on the stage.

West Side Story used a mixture of tough dancing and intense singing to wow the audience. "The songs in the show were really difficult to sing, so I used to put my iPod on and sing along with the Broadway recording," said Zachary Pashenee '12. Senior Courtney Toton favored the dancing saying, "The Mambo [was my favorite dance] because it was a group scene and it was just fun to learn the dances."

After the final curtain call, many of the seniors were emotional due to it being their last performance. But at the cast party, which was held at the Comfort Inn, everyone celebrated with swimming and games.

BEHIND THE SCENES

NICOLE BAKER '12

THE LEGACY OF TWENTY ELEVEN

Four years of pride, perseverance, and laughter has shaped the Port Huron High School Class of 2011. Though the class has suffered their moments of disappointment, such as losing to the Port Huron Northern football team after winning for the previous three years, they have also experienced moments of victory.

The seniors of 2011 have set the standard for Homecoming floats, having won first place three out of four years. Band members helped lead the Big Red Marching Machine to a AA Division I at MSBOA for their Styx, The Who, and Stevie Wonder shows. Class of 2011 athletes dominated the field, going on to win MAC championships in volleyball and tennis, making it to regionals in soccer, and advancing to the playoffs in football.

The seniors of 2011 gathered at Fore Lakes on September 19, 2010 for their class photo. This was the first time PH seniors took their class photo there.

Guided by Mr. Dave Koester and Mrs. Trish Ford, the class was first led by Nicole Corbin for two years, then Molly Ford overtook the presidency for junior and senior year. The class was also led by vice president Betsy Vollmar, secretary Lina Lu, treasurer Kyle Falk, ombudsman Travis Hill, and historians Shelby Conard, Shelby Gonzales, and Kristin Kinney.

Often called the "guinea pigs" of the school district, due to the changing curriculum, the seniors of 2011 have overcome this stigma to prove that they are the best. They have left their mark throughout the school in the gym, stadium, performing arts center, cafeteria, and most definitely in the halls. Though the last four years have come to an end, the legacy of the seniors of 2011 has just begun.

CHERISHING THE VACATION MEMORIES

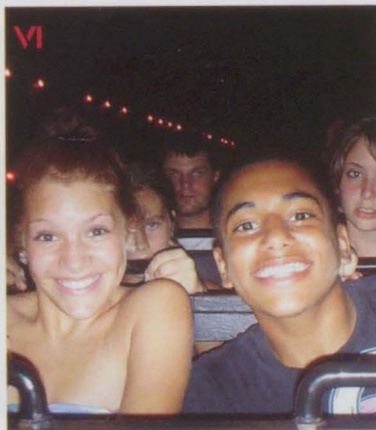

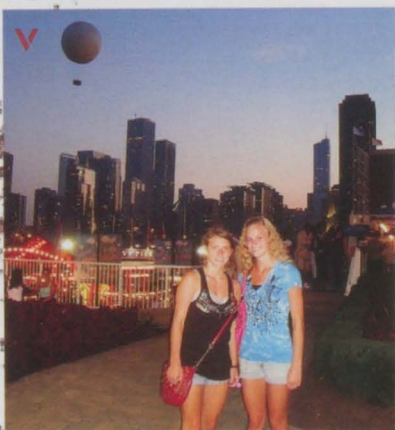

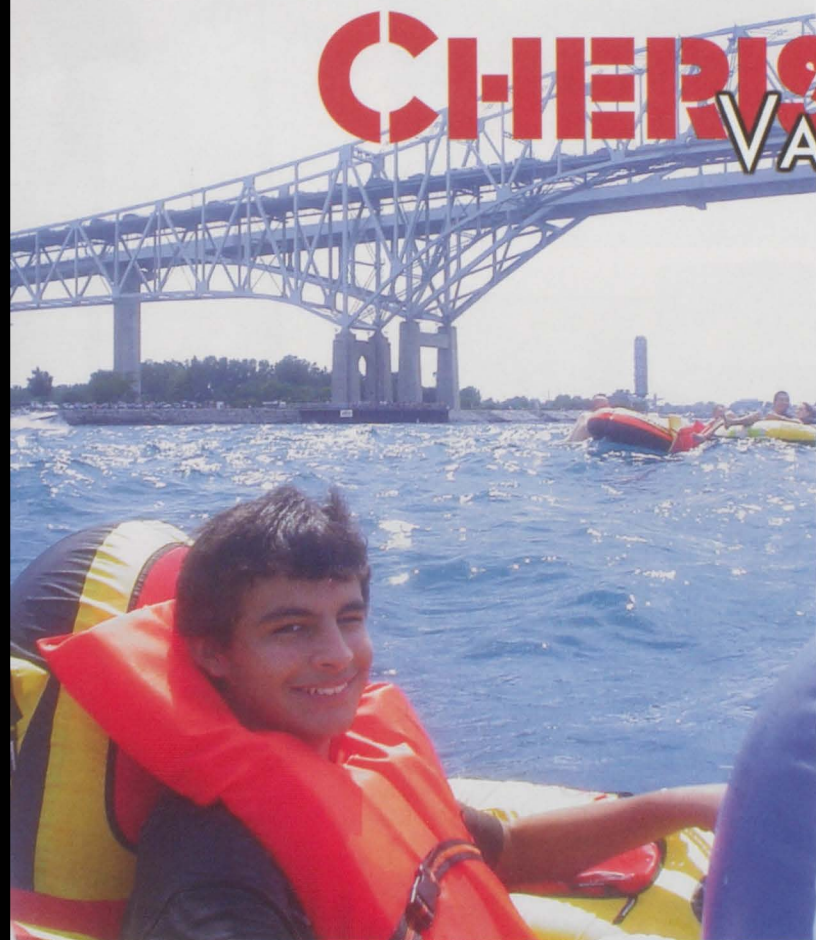

STORY BY: LINDSAY DILLER

Big Reds get out of town!

After semesters of academic pursuits, Port Huron High School students put their vacation time to good use. During spring break, the Big Red Marching Machine went to New York City for four days. Steven Tracy '13 said, "Seeing the New York Philharmonic was my favorite part." Students didn't have to be a part of the band to enjoy their spring break. Many students traveled throughout the state and nation, while others just stayed at home and relaxed.

Though the school vacations of the past year have come and gone, the memories made will live on forever. Many have laughed, cried, partied, and even more this past summer. Some traveled far and wide, and others just stayed in town and spent time with friends and family. Junior Madeleine Korth stated she, "just hung out, stayed up late, and went to the beach." Many students participated in the Float Down. They donned their life jackets, got on their innertubes and mattresses and floated down the St. Clair River with friends and family. Students also filled their vacation time with trips to amusement parks, the zoo, and local recreational venues.

When not at the beach, PHHS students spent time this summer doing activities that involved school, such as the Big Red Wave, fall sports, summer homework, or meeting up with the clubs and organizations to plan for the upcoming school year. Taylor Johnston '11 said, "I was at the school everyday in August for volleyball conditioning and practice. We had 2 1/2 weeks of two-a-days."

"Let's go Big Reds!
Let's go!"

Cheers of school spirit came from the stands as hundreds of students sat in the gymnasium to get pumped for the varsity football game against crosstown rival Port Huron Northern that was happening later that night. The pep assembly was filled with enthusiastic shouts, posters, and chants that got the whole school excited for that evening. In order to create even more school spirit, assistant principals were down on the floor asking the student body what team would win the game and whose house it was, the answer was "Big Reds".

The Thunderbirds, put on a dance performance to try and get the crowd energetic. The varsity cheerleading team also had a routine they performed that was quite up beat. "At first I wasn't looking forward to performing. But as we got closer to performing all the girls worked hard and were solid and the dance turned out great," said Shelby VanderEsch '11, a varsity cheerleader.

In addition to the pep assembly, the members of all fall sports were announced so the whole school could congratulate them on their season. These sports included varsity boys soccer, tennis, and football, along with varsity girls volleyball, golf, and cheerleading; as well as, boys and girls cross country, the swim team, Thunderbirds, and the equestrian team. As each name was read off the athlete walked across the gymnasium floor and lined up so the audience could admire the team. "I liked being recognized for my sports and seeing everyone cheering and being happy," said Curtis Senyk '11.

Rock THE FLOAT AND BUILD

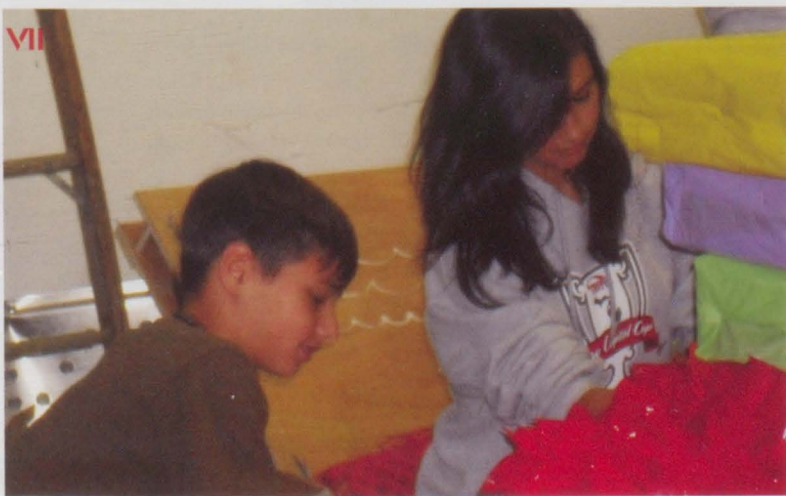

STORY BY: JAMIE KOEBKE & BRYAN HANSON PHOTOS BY: STAFF

Just keep building, Just keep building

Now there's one tough week that every class has to deal with and that is building their float to win top prize. The classes used materials bought from their class funds or that were donated. The class advisors were there to chaperon and help out with what they could, like using the saws. Many students from each grade came to help with the building process. This year's building supplies were not nonperishable foods or canned goods like last year, but made out of paper mache, chicken wire and wood. Senior Eric Hale stated, "I liked building out of the can goods and nonperishable items better because we didn't really need as much cutting and measuring."

This year all the classes worked diligently to make their float the best. The amount of work that was put into the floats was more then expected from most advisors. Sophomore Matthew Gillett said, "I'm happy with all the work that was put in the float, and all the teamwork too." It was team work and late nights that got the floats done on time for the parade to be judged, and ready for the game to be seen by many.

The community came out to support the Big Reds and view their floats and cheered them on during the half time showing. This years theme was Candyland. Junior Courtney Weiss said, "It brings back memories of the board game". All of the classes seemed to be happy with the end product of their hard work, and dedication from such a long week. The school spirit that was shown, showed the community who the big reds really were.

PUMP UP YOUR SCHOOL SPIRIT

A taste of Big Red pride.

With funny outfits, colorful clothing, and immense pride, Port Huron High School's spirit week was a time for creativity and expression. Having a theme like Candyland, Big Reds had five days of mouth watering fun. The spirit week days were unique and gave the students another reason to be hungry for school.

The unforgettable moments students experienced among their peers during spirit week was something truly remarkable. "As a senior I do believe these are memories the entire student class will share once we see each other at reunion," stated Travis Hill '11.

Taking place at the end of spirit week was the annual games assembly. Every grade tried to show the most pride and worked hard to win. The crowd demonstrated excitement, ready to support their class. Students and staff joined in the fun and exciting activities in front of the crowds in the stands. This year there were many new and interesting games such as the animal cracker run, the gummy worm pie contest, and the hula-hoop pass.

Though no trophy or ribbons were given to the winners, every student got to take pride in the hard work that their fellow classmates put into representing their grade. Seniors dominated the limbo contest and the hula-hoop pass, while the other grades put up a good fight. Coming in first place were the seniors, followed by the juniors and freshmen who tied for second, and the sophomores brought up the end in last place.

CANDY MAIDE PARADE

everything nice!

The opening event to a weekend full of fun started off Friday afternoon, the first weekend of October, with a Candyland themed parade. Students were on a sugar high as they geared up for the football game with the seniors leading the students in the parade and making lots of noise on a trolley. Olivia Burkhardt '11 stated, "The trolley was hype; we had lots of school spirit!"

School pride and spirit was at an all time high. This year's parade started out with the seniors' candy cane float followed by a lollipop field presented by the juniors. "The theme was difficult to work with, a lot better not having cans," said Kaleb Fulk '12. Previously, classes used canned goods to build their floats and later donated the goods to local soup kitchens.

The sophomores tailed behind with their Jolly gum drop forest, and the freshmen's gingerbread house float ate up the crowd. Retired Port Huron High School teachers, Mr. Rock Stevens and Ms. Laura Foster, were presented as the Grand Marshalls, followed by last year's homecoming queen and the senior homecoming court nominees. Members of the homecoming court were escorted in snazzy cars through the roaring crowds; onlookers admired the scene. New to this year's staff, Mrs. Tina Hendershot explains, "It was exciting to watch my first homecoming parade."

The floats were finger-licking good as the students from each grade presented them to the "little reds" of Roosevelt and the "warriors" of Woodrow Wilson Elementary; followed by the community of downtown Port Huron.

SUGAR INDUCED DANCING

"Tonight's gonna be a good night!"

For some, it's just another Saturday, but for most students of Port Huron High School, it's the highlight of their school year.

After hours of preparation, the day had finally arrived. Attire varied from short dresses to long gowns and shirts with ties to tuxedos. Enduring the rain, students lined up at the main doors to await the start of the Candyland experience.

The guests were greeted by a runner of neon pink, orange, and green cardstock paper. The gymnasium was decorated with balloons, oversized lollipops, and candies that covered the walls. The cafeteria was also decorated with glass jars filled with Lifesavers candy and colorful flowers.

"The theme and decorations were pretty colorful. I was hoping to eat a bunch of candy but I ate a lot of cookies instead," said sophomore Tyler Debuf.

The dancing music was everything from Justin Bieber to Lil Wayne. One of the most popular songs of the night was "Cupid Shuffle" by the rap artist Cupid.

Homecoming court member Shelby Conard '10 had one thing to say about the dance, "being on the court was pretty neat and the dance was REALLY fun!"

If students got tired, the cafeteria was the place to go. As always, the student council provided fruit punch and chocolate chip cookies for the party-goers. The cafeteria was set up with tables and chairs for attendees to sit with other guests or just to relax. "Sometimes you just need a break from the chaos of the dance," said Dakotah Miller '11.

Welcome class of 2014!!

For a new freshman coming into a new school, it's tough trying to meet new people, memorizing a schedule, or even finding a lunch seat. Becoming familiarized with a new place can be hectic and stressful, so starting off early can only help. Getting a feel for the school makes students feel at ease with the new surroundings. The most anxious day of the summer vacation for a freshman is the Big Red Wave orientation.

The day kicked off with chaotic registration and the snapping of school pictures. Mentors and advisors then moved the new freshmen into the auditorium for a fashion show to demonstrate what school wear is inappropriate. As the day moved on, the freshmen participated in many different ice breakers including the human knot and "Have you ever?". They also participated in club meet and greets, PHHS jeopardy, and an amazing race scavenger hunt.

Getting the job done right!

Part of growing up is joining the work force. For some of the students here at Port Huron High School, working was a pleasure, for others it was dreaded. Sophomore Jonah Bell, who works at Burger King fell into the first category. "I take orders and make food. My favorite part about work is the lunch rush, I like being busy."

Everyone had their own story of the worst thing they've had to do at work. Some of these were very amusing, while others were pretty disgusting. "Cleaning out a 15 year old shed was pretty horrible," stated Jared Crockett '11, who works for Tyler Crockett Marine Engine.

Many students enjoyed their jobs because they got to meet new people at work. Junior Andrea Monzo, who has been working at Burger King for just over a year said, "my favorite thing about work is that I get along with all the workers". Whether students have been working for a few years or just a few months, everyone could agree with junior Kourtney Letzgus, who works at Packaging, kind of boring, but a bit and the hours

MUSIC MAKES YOU LOSE CONTROL

Music is the door that opens your soul!

PH Idol is not just a way to showcase the talented singers at Port Huron High School. Rather, it is the choir program's most profitable fundraiser of the year. Parents, friends, teachers, and fans buy votes that help fund the choir program and move contestants through each round. Through the hard work and organization of choir director Mr. Terry Beasley and the aid of performing arts teacher Ms. Denise McCaffrey, the 2010 PH Idol competition was a success.

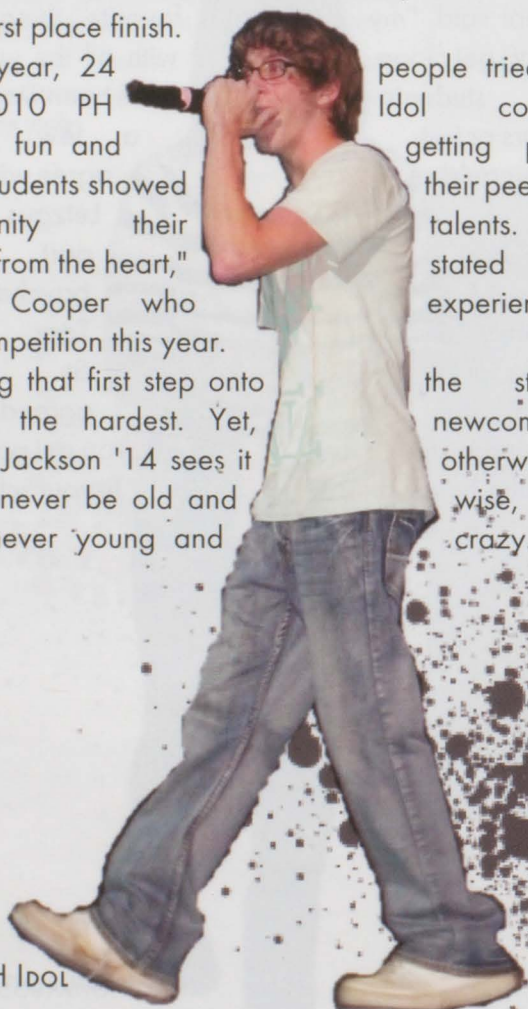

Contestants chose a wide range of songs to showcase their musical talents. From country to 1980's pop to rock, no genre was off limits. Senior Justin Woolman stated, "live your life to the fullest and choose the music that makes you happy." Following that advice, Selina Franks '13 chose a TLC hit, "No Scrubs". Her brave choice paid off and landed her a first place finish.

It was no surprise when Port Huron High School's After School Drama Club decided to perform a play filled with mischief, jokes, and most importantly, drama. After three months of practice, student thespians presented The Man Who Came to Dinner to the public. The play marked a first for the drama club, being the first PH Drama Club straight show with a significantly large cast. Joshua Feher '12 stated, "I think it was harder [having a larger cast] because I was expected to do more; but it was a better experience."

The cast, being made up mostly of seniors and juniors, portrayed life in the 1930's. When asked why he auditioned, junior Jacob Duman, who played radio assistant Westcott in his first PH production, said, "I was into acting when I was little and I wanted to get back into it."

The play centers around an unwanted guest, a radio talk show host named Sheridan Whiteside, played by junior Zachary Pashenee. He brings with him a nurse, a doctor, a secretary, a flock of penguins, and an entire Chinese acrobatic troupe, making life hard for the family of the house, the Stanleys. "The part of the show was having to like a pterodactyl on stage," said Paige Precour '13, who played actress Lorraine Sheldon.

Freshman Caitlyn Heath said, "...it's my first year in high school so I have a bigger variety of people to talk to; so I have different types [of friends] as well as more friends..."

Sophomore Mark Cantu improved himself by getting better grades.

Justin Martin '11 said he was more focused on getting good grades and gaining success in school.

Academics are the proverbial keys to success. Everyone needs an education in order to use these keys to start an enriching life. At Port Huron High School, a wide variety of classes were offered and aided in functioning as a springboard to help students with their future goals.

took advanced classes that offered college credit as well as fulfilling the Michigan Merit Curriculum. Blue Water Middle College was formed with the hopes of enriching the education of the class of 2013 and beyond. Some students preferred the challenges that technical and career courses offered. Areas such as welding and cosmetology were offered through the TEC center and helped students pursue their career goals.

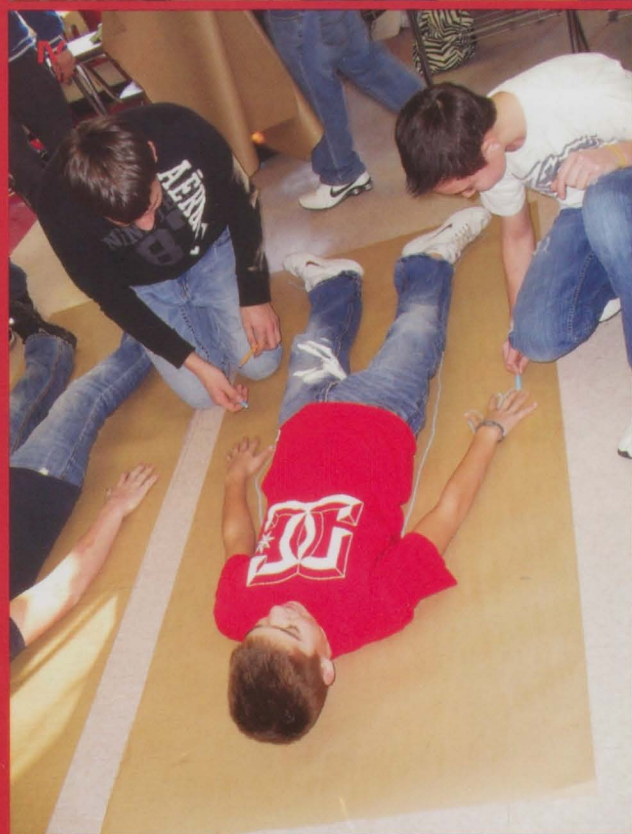

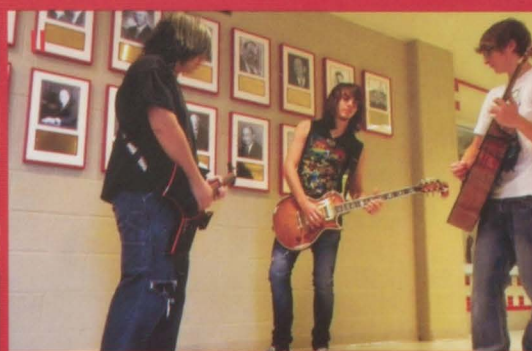

The core curriculum was a mainstay, but electives were, like always, a big part of students' lives at school. Budding artists, thespians, musicians, and athletes did well in classes such as Graphic Design, Performing Arts, band, and Football Theory.

Whatever your academic passion, the classrooms of Big Red Country were filled with opportunities to those brave enough to grab the keys to their future.

EXPERIMENT WITH CHEMICALS AND EQUATIONS

Think about the items that are used everyday. Cell phones, computers, videogames, etc. Without math and science, these things would not be possible. PHHS offered a variety of both science and math classes this year to help the aspiring engineers, inventors, and environmentalists learn more about theorems and chemicals.

Classes such as Physical Science, Chemistry, Biology, Physics, and their mathematical counterparts, Algebra, Geometry, and Statistics, helped students prepare for rigorous college courses. Sophomore Riley Thompson stated, "Science is actually interesting to learn about, and helps prepare you for the world of tomorrow."

Students also had some leeway when choosing which courses would fit their future goals. Taylor Mackenzie '14 took Geometry over Algebra. She said, "I like Geometry because it's easier than Algebra and makes me feel smart." Most seniors and juniors took Pre-Calculus or AP Calculus, with the hopes of gaining more mathematical skills for college and also for careers after high school.

Some students needed the science skills in school to pursue their dreams in life. "I really love science, so I want to become a marine biologist," stated Sara Wardwell '12. Students that were interested in learning how plants effect the world and how animals help the food chain took either Biology or AP Biology. Those who liked the chemical aspect of things chose to take Chemistry or AP Chemistry.

No matter what the career path, the math and science classes at PHHS helped prepare students for the future.

Shakespeare, novels, grammar, poems, essays, and writing can only mean one thing: ELA. Students also had the opportunity to explore languages besides English, with classes offered in both Spanish and French.

Although every person had their favorite language class, learning multiple languages and mastering them were difficult to some students. "I think my language classes will greatly help me in the long run because it gives me the education I need through helping me understand different forms of grammar and vocabulary," explained sophomore Katie Bartley.

Foreign languages interested students in different ways. "I love learning about the different cultures and the similarities between their language and ours," said Christiana Elling '13. Learning about the different cultures and languages are the obvious things being studied when taking a foreign language class, but there are also some interesting projects involved. In Mrs. Angie Kopydlowski's Spanish class, students were assigned a project in which they had to create an altar for Day of the Dead; a Mexican holiday where the dead are remembered. "I liked seeing the differences between our religion and culture to Mexican religion and culture," said Todd Summerer '11.

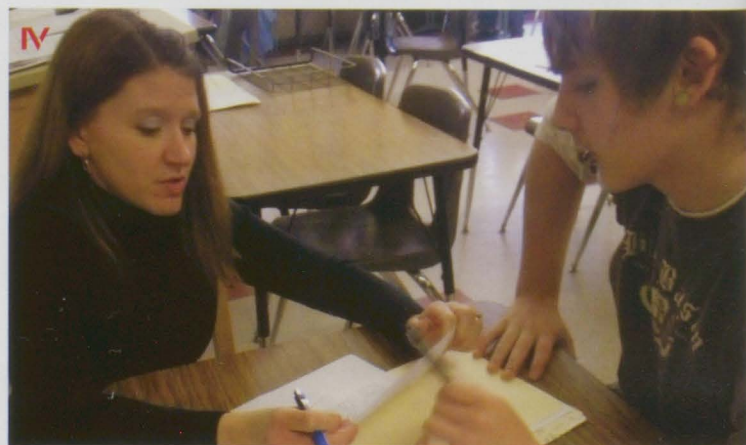

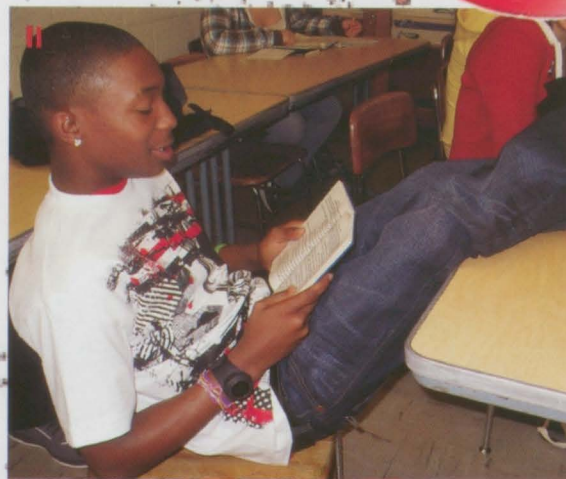

Not only did students enjoy subjects that associated with English and studying foreign languages, but their teachers also enjoyed the teaching experience. Mrs. Andrea Malachi-Wansedel commented, "My favorite part about teaching is analyzing literature."

III. Tyler Sawdon '14 receives help and critique from Mrs. Elizabeth Tomhave on his English assignment. Students had to write a compare and contrast paper on two characters of their choice.

IV. Working together, Lauren Pringle '14 and Breanna Hansen '14 edit each others' rough drafts. Sharing ideas with classmates helped toward a top notch final essay.

V. Stephon Burrell '14 uses a computer in Mrs. Deb Werth's classroom to type up his ELA 9 assignment. Writing assignments were a big part of ELA. Practicing writing skills helped students' use of vocabulary.

VI. Freshman Devin Weaver uses a netbook to complete his work. The netbooks were a new addition to Port Huron High School this year. They were used in the English and foreign language classrooms.

VII. With all focus onto his novel, Jonathan Crawford '11 enjoys a book by Elie Wiesel called Night. Night is the autobiography of Wiesel's experience during the Holocaust.

VIII. Krysten Kean '12, a student in Mrs. Angie Kopdylowski's Spanish class, works diligently on her Spanish assignment. Spanish is a class that was not required, but could be a big tool to use in the future.

EXERCISING FOR YOUR HEALTH

STORY BY: CHELSEA KING PHOTOS BY: STAFF

With national obesity rates on the rise, taking care of your body is a top priority. Students at Port Huron High School had that opportunity in both health and physical education classes. According to teacher Ms. Angela Parmann, "Health is a wonderful subject to teach because I know I can educate kids on their bodies and health."

Health was, as always, a one semester required class, taken mostly by freshmen. However, with schedule conflicts, many students put off this requirement until they were an upperclassman. Junior Ajee' Lee stated that, "The best part about health class is learning about how the body works." Not only do students learn about the functions of the human body, but they learn how to properly care for it. "I've learned things about my body that I didn't even know, so now I know what to do when taking care of it," stated Imari Searles-Harper '12.

Students also learned more about their bodies in their gym classes. One semester of general gym is required, but many chose to also take courses such as Weights and Aerobics and Recreational Sports. These classes teach you how to stay fit as well as the rules and regulations of various sports. "I chose to take Weights and Aerobics because it sounded like more fun than taking a gym class with a bunch of freshmen," stated sophomore Cassie Smith.

According to senior Tahj King, gym and health classes are "something we all need." These classes helped students attain and maintain a healthy, fit, and active lifestyle for both their teenage and adult years.

V. Azaila Powell '12 helps Bridgette Johnson '12 return her weight to the rack. Weights and aerobics is popular elective class that helps students improve their strength.

VI. Warmups were a large part of every gym class, and helped to get muscles ready for the physical activity of the day. Many classes did pushups, situps, and leg and arm stretches.

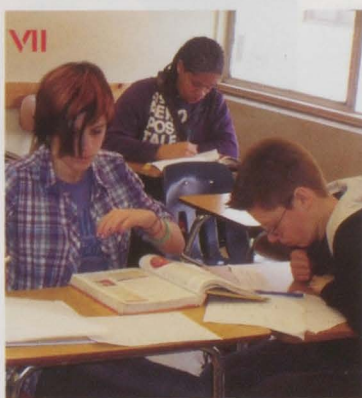

VII. While working together on their Health assignment in Mrs. Rebecca Kennedy-Saura's class, Ashley Louks '14 and Travis Lawrence '12 complete their chapter review.

MAKING HISTORY

ONE CLASS AT A TIME

Compared to the previous requirement of four full years of a social studies class, underclassmen learned that they only have to take three years of social studies. This was a sigh of relief to most students who have many other graduation requirements to accomplish. "I like the new requirement because it gives me more space for electives," Sydney Bramer '14 explained. But Social Studies still remained an important and influential part of students' education.

Social Studies covered all types of areas such as World History, Civics, Economics, U.S. history, AP Government, AP U.S. History, and AP World History. Every student had their personal favorite. Freshman Chandler Crow, who took U.S. History, explains her favorite subject, "Social Studies is my favorite subject because I like learning about the past."

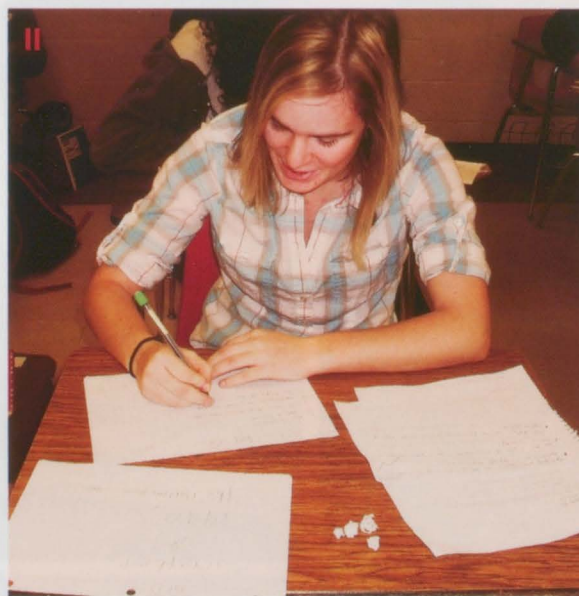

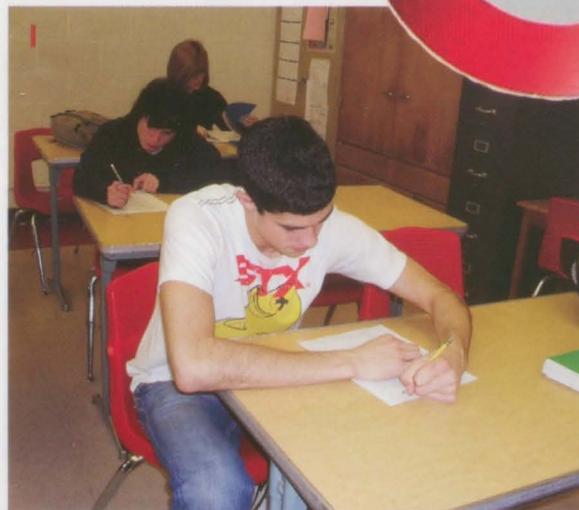

Working straight from the book wasn't always the best way to learn, so projects were assigned as well. In Mrs. Tricia Ford's AP Government class, her students had to run their own political party and presidential campaign. Senior foreign exchange student Sytske van Daal talked about her experience, "Naturally Americans would be against foreigners being president, but I was the president of my campaign." Student in Mrs. Michelle Davis's Civics class did a project called "Snow Ball Fight", where they had to ask and answer questions about the two houses of Congress. Mrs. Shelly Davis commented, "I like being creative and having my students thinking outside of the box, because it's more fun."

II. Sophomore Caitlyn Sanderson works on her missing work for Mrs. Tina Hendershot's U.S. history class. Not only was it important to make up missing work, it helped turn any grade into a good one.

III. Sophomores Jamie Brown and Kevin Nicefield partner up in a game of Monopoly during their Economics class. The games helped them learn about business transactions.

IV. Ms. Kris Pettingal's students Haley Ruhlman '13 and Antonia Moncrief '13 enjoy a game of Pay Day. The girls sharpen up their real life money skills in a simple game of fun.

V. Sophomore Justin Neil plays the Game of Life. Ms. Kris Pettingal's students were required to play a game that not only involved money, but also showed the meaning of learning economics.

VI. Taking chapter notes from the textbook, Amanda Stephens '14 completes her US history book work assignment. All freshmen were required to take US history as a graduation requirement.

VII. Sydney Martin '14 studies what it was like to live in the 1920's in Mrs. Tina Hendershot's US history class. Students completed projects on everything from flappers to the prohibition.

HISTORY AND POLITICS

"AP US History is my favorite subject because it deals with politics," explained junior class president Hayley Alderman-Wuchte.

COLOSSAL CREATIVITY

STORY BY: KELLEY BETTEN PHOTOS: KAYLA BROCKITT & KELLEY BETTEN

By walking through the halls of Port Huron High School, everyone could see more than just core academics. The walls and display cases have been decorated with drawings and paintings for as long as students have been producing it. Many Big Reds loved playing with a computer mouse, mushing clay, or painting with a fine tip brush. "I'd have to say, old fashion pencil is where it's at," stated senior Brittini Nalanga. Many students also enjoyed the atmosphere of art classes this year; some students even continued with a second year of Ceramics or an advanced art class.

As the year continued, the fine arts teachers, with new addition Mrs. Marie Farina, furthered their knowledge in the field. The 2011-2012 school year will open new doors for the creative department, by teaching new methods and changing the name of art classes, and even adding an AP Studio Art class. The teachers learned to expect more out of their art students, and in balance, learned to support more originality. "It changed my way of thinking about how to teach art classes," stated Mr. Scott Magnuson.

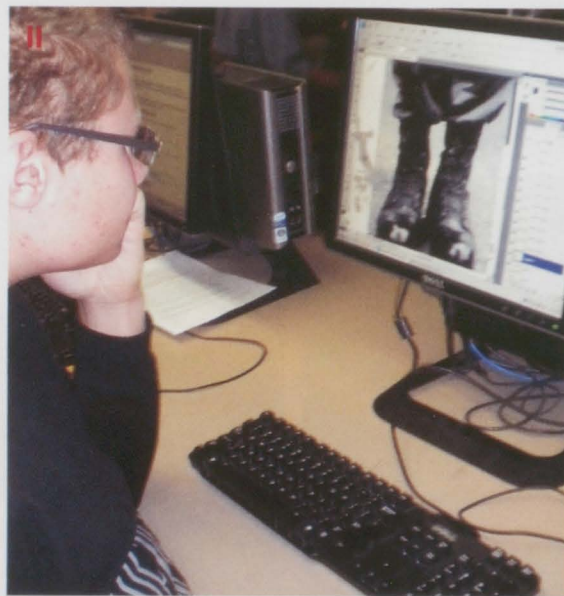

The annual Scholastic Art & Writing Awards, which was held to give students a chance to have their artwork seen by the public, was very successful in 2011. Five Big Reds won Gold Keys: seniors Kelley Betten, Richard Drummond, Eric Werner, and juniors Tyler Thieke and Devin Andreasen. Seniors Chelsea Sherman, Justyne Tomalo, and Joshua Walerych received Gold Keys for their portfolios. Shelby Gonzales '11 and Joshua Walerych '11 also received Silver Keys in Painting and Graphic Design.

VI. Seniors Ryan Swinson and Justyne Tomalo have a blast in their graphic design class. They are working on posters for Graphic Design; finding the right picture for inspiration was key to a successful project.

VII. Senior Holli O'Neil uses different shades of purple acrylic paint to create the shapes she needs for her art project in class. O'Neil needed to mix the paints to just the right shade before she began.

VIII. Brittany Collins '11 studies her computer screen to find a picture for her digital art. "My favorite medium is graphic design, but I also like to use colored pencils and pastels," said Collins.

BEHIND THE PAINT

"The beautiful thing about art is it's the artist's own creation, no rules or guidelines," stated senior Chelsea Sherman, whose favorite competition was the Fine Arts Festival.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS

STORY BY: JAMIE KOEBKE PHOTOS BY: BRITTANY BEAUDIN

Working for part of their day, TEC and Co-Op students learned how to survive in their future jobs. Many of the students in the Cosmetology program got a chance to take a job at The Great Lakes Academy of Hair Design and the second year nursing program students got a chance at working a hands-on internship instead of going to a lecture class.

Co-Op students got a chance to learn about the proper way to dress and act in a formal work place. "I think Co-Op will help me in the future because I want to be a teacher and I get to see what goes on while teachers aren't in class," stated Catherand Thornsberry '11.

The students in TEC got a chance to meet new people, like students from Capac, Yale, Memphis, Marysville, East China, and Algonac. Students could participate in any program they choose to help with their future goals, such as cooking, construction, and digital media.

The students who have previously been in TEC can say that it really helps with experience in the work force, and in learning the importance of education in their jobs.

TEC opened up new possibilities for students who were at first set in a career path, but the variety of programs made them open to other occupation possibilities. Many students went to TEC because they were focused on their career goals and wanted to get a feel for the job before they jumping right into that major in college, not knowing if they enjoyed the work or not. Though education is the most important thing, doing what you love with your education is just as important.

THE BEAUTY OF FINE ARTS

STORY BY: MOETA FABELO & SELINA COLLINGE PHOTOS: KAYLA BROCKITT

Whether it's singing, acting, or playing an instrument, having creative talents for the arts is something many students had a desire for. Port Huron High School offered Choir, Performing Arts, and Guitar classes that allowed students to use their artistic ability to the fullest potential. "I like that they provide these classes. It's something different than having just a regular class," said sophomore Kendra Trendy.

The saying "practice makes perfect" really did come to life when dealing with singing, acting, or playing an instrument. Perfecting live performances for plays or musical acts were extremely essential. For Performing Art students who did live plays, practicing was very important. "Practicing for plays can be really time consuming, but it's not boring, and it's worth it to give a good performance," said Haily Stager '11.

The decision on whether to take a music class or an acting class could have been a hard decision, but for most students, choosing between the two was the easiest thing. Although Guitar and Choir are both music classes, students do prefer one over the other. "I prefer guitar over choir because guitar definitely interests me more. Guitar is more fun for me, and it takes a lot of skill and practice," explained sophomore Marquis Lewis.

Not only did students have a passion for the classes they took, but teachers constructed and taught these subjects because they are just as passionate as the students taking the classes. Choir and Guitar teacher Mr. Terry Beasley stated, "I have to be passionate about what I teach because if I don't have passion, the kids won't have a reason to learn."

IV. Senior Oma Cheyenne Willing and Kaitlyn Koester '14 practice their song for the annual collage concert. The collage concert brought together all of the music classes.

V. Jonathon Gaffney '12 and Abigail Elsternmann '13 practice playing their guitars and reading the music sheets. Being able to play and read music were two of the things needed to successfully play any instrument.

VI. Mr. Terry Beasley's concert choir class uses their voices to their full potential to sing the songs they need to perform for the next concert. The choir class put on a handful of concerts throughout the school year.

VII. Seniors Ryan Urban, Systke van Daal, Lauren Lamonica, Laura Forsman, and sophomore Raymond McMillion gather together to go over the music they're about to sing.

Students at Port Huron High School made the year a success with their sport participation. With many options of sports teams, students had the chance to represent the school in red and white while playing a sport that they were passionate about.

ups and jerseys. PH teams all took a step to a new look by embracing the "black out" that was started by the Tribe for the football players in the fall and continued on to the basketball players in the winter.

Players started off season trying to restore their strengths by getting back into shape or practicing to get better at a sport. Many students were supportive of their classmates and decided to help cheer them on by joining the student section in the bleachers or cheering on the basketball or football teams by joining the cheerleading squad.

Students played their best this year with many good records and wins left to show off even after the year came to a conclusion. The varsity football team made it to the play-offs, the varsity volleyball team won second place in districts, and varsity girls basketball won the MAC Championship.

In other games, three strikes means you're out. In bowling, three strikes equals a turkey and makes you an ideal candidate for the Port Huron High School bowling team. The key to success this year was to practice. That's exactly what they did as they stacked up hours upon hours of practicing at Port Huron Lanes. The bowlers tried to improve their scores in different ways. Sophomore Douglas Young said he tried "remembering to rotate my hand over the ball."

New bowlers weren't the only new faces to the team. The team welcomed new coaches, Mr. Dave Barnum and Mrs. Julie Brettin, who were more than ready and well prepared to tackle the tough season.

Knocking down the pins, this year's bowling team got a ranking of Class A. Other highlights of the season were junior Dylan Jacobs going to states and freshman Chelsea Kelly placing 14th at the regional competition. The main goal of the year was to make sure no matter how the game went, they were always supporting their team and having a blast.

Many PH bowlers said that the best thing about being on the team is the fun that comes with it. Sophomore Jonah Bell's favorite thing about bowling on the team is "it makes you be more precise even at the times when you're under so much pressure."

At one of the competitions, the boys varsity team first lost to Chippewa Valley, but came right back around a month after and defeated them, 17-13. Even though the season was hard and competitive, the boys varsity team ended their season with an overall record of 8 - 3.

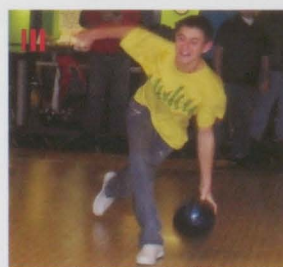

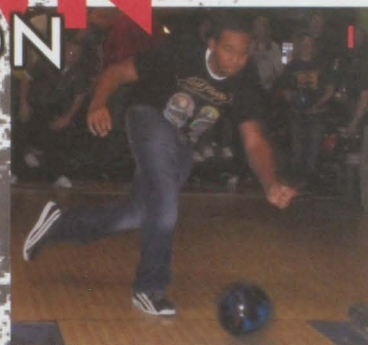

I. Having fun and working hard, Vaune Johnson '12 practices snapping his wrist. Doing this releases the ball to make it curve as it heads down the lane.

II. Samantha Burns '14 and Brianna Boyce '12 observe Nathan Kell's technique as he approaches the alley. Burns finished with 125 avg. and Boice with 110 avg..

III. Illustrating proper form, junior Tyler Zayas attempts to pick up a spare. Zayas carried a 176 average for the year.

IV. During practice at Port Huron Lanes, freshman Chelsea Kelly practices a hook shot. Hooking the ball requires adding spin during the release.

V. "PH doesn't lose boy!", shouts Jonah Bell '13 as he bowls in another strike for the boys varsity team. This was Jonah's first year as part of the boys varsity team.

"My best memory was when I got a 150 game and a 290 series. For futures bowlers, make sure to always have fun and don't try to show off."

Khyra Perez '14

"The competition part of the game is what I like best about bowling. I'm very competitive and I like to strive to be the best."

SERVING AN ACE AND MAKING A RACKET

STORY BY: SAMANTHA INCH & MR. E PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

According to Aniela Kujda-Roche '11, what makes tennis a great sport is that, "You are in charge of the game." This mentality is what set apart the 2010 girls tennis teams from their predecessors. By taking charge of their own fates, the varsity squad posted a 5-5-3 record while the junior varsity finished their season 6-6-1. The varsity girls also posted a first place finish at the Warren Cousino Invitational, a third place finish at the MAC White Tournament and a fourth place finish at the MHSAA Regional Tournament.

The squads were lead by several individuals. Playing number one singles, Brittany Banks '11 posted a career 38-30 record followed closely by Kelsay Payton '11 at number two singles. Carly Sansone '10 and Megan Hillman '11 earned the number one doubles position.

Players created a family like atmosphere that helped them work as a team to improve their individual games. Hope Telfer '12 stated, "We had good teamwork this year. We all work together and cheer for one another to show our support. We make up a family who shares a common interest and a love for one of the greatest sports."

Both the JV and varsity squads not only focused on the importance of having fun, but also on being competitive with opponents they faced. Junior LeeAnn Lum stated, tennis is "a very competitive sport and you can have so much fun at the same time." At the end of the season the girls were relieved to have accomplished a good record and have a promising future ahead.

I. Focusing on the ball, Micaela McBride '12 stretches to return her opponents hit. It was Micaela's second season with the Junior Varsity team.

II. At practice, Ellie Flaherty '13 receives pointers on the best body positioning for returning an opponent's serve. Serve receive is key for acquiring points.

III. Handing out useful advice, Coach Lori Shymko shares strategies with Brittany Banks '11 through the fence of Port Huron High's tennis courts.

IV. Perfecting her form, Jessica Swarts '11 plays the baseline and awaits her opponents return. Swarts played number three doubles for the varsity team.

V. As returning varsity letter winners, Megan Stone '10 and Katelyn Cline '11 helped the varsity team boast a successful season.

VI. Playing number three doubles, Hope Telfer '11 and Jessica Swarts '11 await their opponents serve. Swarts and Telfer were both returning varsity letter winners.

VII. During a doubles match against Warren Cousino, Micaela McBride '12 plays the net to guard against a short shot.

RIVALS UNITED

STORY BY: TYLER HEWETT

Once again the two rival teams united for a successful season. Port Huron and Port Huron Northern lacrosse players return to the field putting aside rivalries and coming together for a common goal: winning.

With a starting line of returning experienced players the United Lacrosse team was expecting a well played season. A first game loss to L'Anse Cruese by one point was a hard blow to the team. Coming back in their second game against West Bloomfield the players came out fired up and won by 9 points. "It felt really good to win that game, it really fired the team up for the next one", stated Bradley Mervich '12.

The two schools uniting as one team was not as difficult as most would expect. The players came together and set aside difference quickly so they could all focus on the sport. Being on a team together even started some new friendships that extended further than just being teammates. The players had some memorable moments throughout the season. "One of the best moments during season was when the whole team went to play in the Traverse City Tournament for the weekend," stated Cody Desero '12.

Players just learning the sport put the team at a bit of a disadvantage. The team overcame many challenges they faced throughout the season. "Even though we had a lot of new players, we didn't let that stop us," stated Head Coach Brian McDougal.

I. Stopping the ball during the team's last home game of the season against Romulus High School Brendan Stephens '12, only let in 5 goals.

II. Facing off against Cadillac High School is Bradley Elliott '11, during the Traverse City Tournament to start the game and lead the team towards a win.

III. All the players raise their sticks in the air after defeating West Bloomfield High School by 9 points adding another victory to Port Huron's record.

IV. Looking around the field, Jared Crockett '11 tries to find an open teammate to pass the ball to at the Romulus High School game.

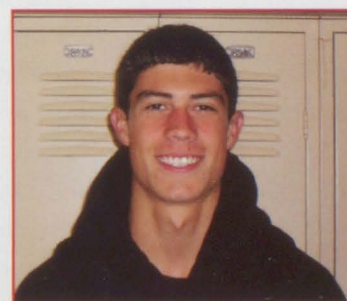

V. Tyler Hewett '12, chases after a groundball during the faceoff at home against Bay City Central High School. An exciting game where Port Huron won in overtime.

"We knew it was going to be a tough season because of the new players. Next year will be a lot better with a whole team of returning experienced players."

Benjamin McDougal '11

"It was pretty difficult moving from the lowest spot on the team to the highest. The new players gaining more experience should help the team a lot next year."

THE GIRLS ARE IN CHARGE

STORY BY: SANDRA HOLLOWAY & CASSIE SMITH PHOTOS BY: SANDRA HOLLOWAY

The Equestrian Team was a very unique club offered at Port Huron High where members joined with their own horses and equipment. Riders Meghan Ski '13 and Katharynne Jaciuk '11 were the only girls on the team this year.

Small but strong, the girls worked long and hard to get themselves and their horses ready for the competitions that were to come. They both worked physically and emotionally with their horses to get to where they are now. "It's not where the judge places you, it's where you are compared to where you were," stated senior Katharynne Jaciuk. From Barrels to Dressage to Speed Trails the girls made a big splash at the districts competition, which were held at Goodells Park.

Speaking of splashes, Port Huron High and Port Huron Northern combined their swim teams to make one hard working, twenty-seven member, all girl Port Huron Area School District team. Together, they were the Red Dawgs Swim Team. Senior Catherand Thornsberry stated, "I love that it brings Northern and us together as one team."

Senior Kaitlin Smith remembered the great advice her father told her before all her meets, "Leave it all in the pool, you should be so tired after every race that someone has to drag you out of the pool." Kaitlin Smith '11 found her father's words of wisdom very helpful. All the girls worked vigorously throughout fundraisers and hobby fests each year to earn money for the ten hour practices they have at the local YMCA every week to get ready for their competitions.

I. Katharynne Jaciuk '11 looks powerful and proud as she rides through the dressage competition. The districts for this year's equestrian were held at Goodells Park.

TEE TO HOLE SINKING THE BALL

Whether birdie, par, or bogey, the Lady Big Reds put their best ball forward, sinking the Macomb Area Conference (MAC) Blue Division title, while the boys took the MAC Gold Division title. The teams had many new members join this year; the girls team went from 6 to 8 players and the boys went from 13 to 10 players on the team.

Teeing off against Chippewa Valley for the first match of the season, the ladies kept victory in mind and won the match with a score of 207 to 258. The boys kept up with the ladies and defeated Fraser 171 to 187.

The girls and boys had a fun season at all the different courses. "My favorite meet was at Belle River, with L'Anse Creuse North. The girls were very nice and fun to golf with," said Danielle Sickles '14. "My favorite course was Golden Hawk because I shot a 45" said Kevin Reilly '12. The teams didn't just have fun golfing, but also had fun on the bus rides. "My favorite memory was the bus rides, singing songs, laughing, talking, and annoying our coach," said Courtney Baker '12.

Hosting the MAC Blue Divisionals, the Lady Big Reds gripped their clubs for their last match before Regionals. After all their hard work, the girls won the MAC Blue Championship with a 10-0 season. The boys finished with a 8-2 season. The ladies kept their balls out of the bunkers and headed to Regionals where they competed against the top teams in the state. Regionals were held at Twin Lakes Golf Course in Oakland, Michigan.

I. Before every match the varsity girls golf team huddled together for an inspirational team pep talk and to form a star with their clubs.

II. Taking her shot off the tee, freshman Sarah Baker stays focused on driving her ball. Baker helped defeat L'Anse Creuse North by eight strokes.

III. Trying to perfect her swings on the practice green before a match against Marysville, junior Anna Burdick works on her form.

IV. Following through on his swing, Jordan Stockwell '10 drives the ball down the fairway. Stockwell was a two year returning varsity letterman.

V. Lining up his putt after reading the green, Nick Pitre '11 tries to sink the ball. Golfers are taught to determine the slope of the green before they putt.

"It was fun being the captain of the team, it gave me a different perspective of the game and team. I was very proud of all of us."

Anna Burdick '12

"I loved the golf team this year, it was like a party everyday. Next year is going to be great. I definitely plan on playing golf for a while."

TACKLING THOSE HURDLES

STORY BY: KELLEY BETTEN PHOTOS BY: TRAVIS MCBRIDE

Practicing their running, jumping, passing, flying, leaping, and gliding helped better the girls track and field team skills on the track. "Practicing and training is very important because it helps you improve and get stronger in what you are doing," stated sophomore Christiana Elling. The ladies worked hard at both practices and meets, and though their record was 2-3, they stayed positive throughout the season.

All of the girls worked together to find their specialty whether it was on the track or on the field. Jazmine Brown '12 said, "Everyone can contribute to the team, everyone has a role they play, and everyone is supported." A big part of the ladies' track experience was cheering on the team, and everyone enjoyed being a member of the team. When asked if she liked being on the track team, junior Tyree Meadows stated, "Heck yeah!"

Regionals took place at Marysville High School where the lady Big Reds competed in several events including hurdles, relays, high and long jumps, pole vault, shot put, and more. The lady Big Reds also competed in the Husky Relays and at the Marysville Invitational. The teams most successful meet was in Sterling Heights, where the girls came out on top with a score of 86 to 48. The ladies track and field team went on to finish fifth in the MAC Red division.

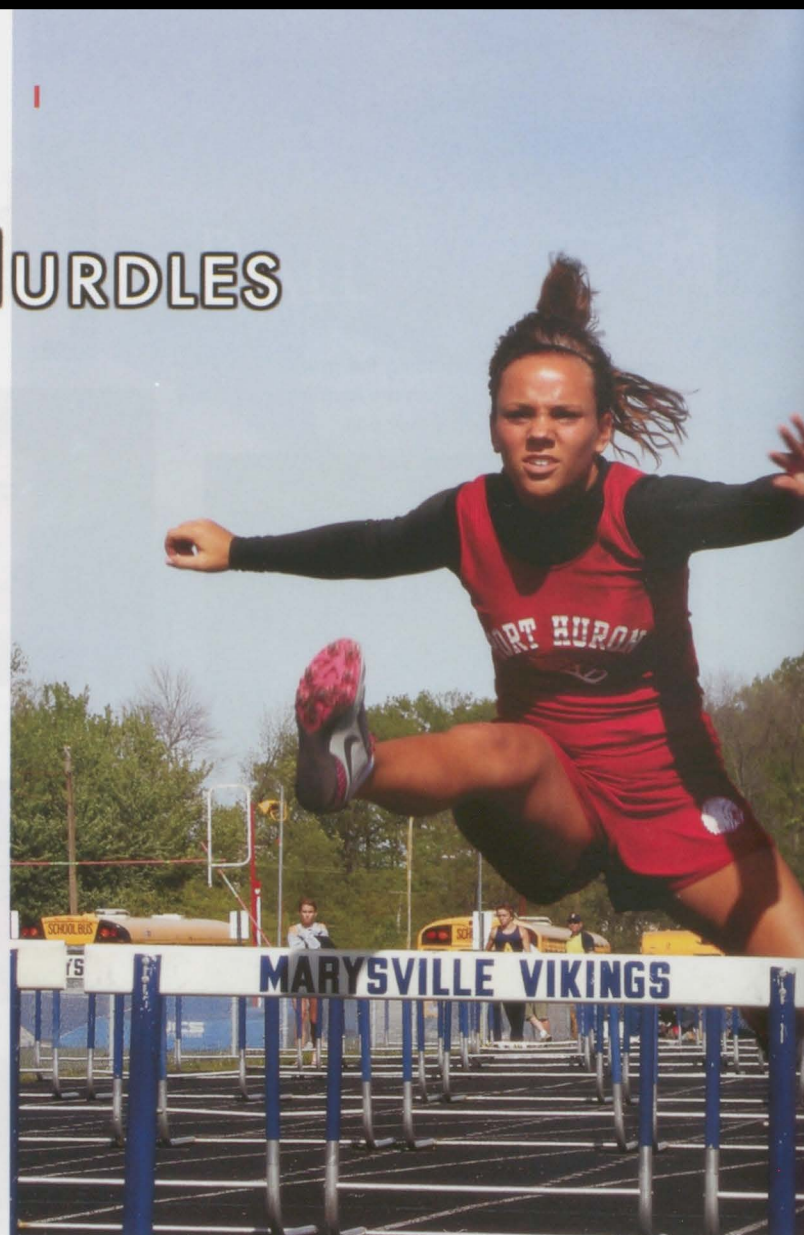

With the retirement of Coach George Moger, the girls track team had to impress their new coach. And with only five seniors graduating and a slew of young talent, the team should be stiff competition in the upcoming season.

I. Flying over the hurdle, Ciara Francisco '11 finishes her race during the Marysville invitational. Jumping over hurdles requires momentum and self-control.

II. Baton held tightly in her hand, Imari Searles-Harper '12 runs with determination and force to finish at a Marine City Invitational.

III. High jumping, Adriana Jordan '12 twists her body so she can avoid the bar. Her highest jump for the season was 5'2".

IV. Junior Jazmine Brown runs the 100 meter relay with focus and willpower as she tries to outpace the Marine City girls.

V. After pushing herself through the 100 meter relay, Molly Rathje '10 surpasses the finish line during the Marine City Invitational.

VI. During the home invitational, Christiana Elling '13 soars over a hurdle while preparing herself for her next race.

VII. Callie Rathje '12 stumbles in her landing, but holds steady for the measure. The long jump for track and field takes a lot of strength to achieve success.

FOR THE "LOVE" OF TENNIS

STORY BY: AMANDA LANGOLF PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

Warming up on the courts, challenging themselves, and taking on every obstacle they encountered is how the boys tennis team prepared themselves for the season. The tennis team had all summer to make sure they were at their best, to ace the new season, and to improve on their skills. Keeping up with the varsity players, the junior varsity team never let down their guard. Moving forward with every chance that they got, the boys always came out swinging.

Working their way to the top, perfection was more than just an option for these athletes. "I enjoy playing doubles with Kyle Cortez and have played with the varsity team various times," stated Amos Privette '14. Varsity coach, Mr. Greg Barra pushed his players to help them reach their full potential, and made sure they gave their best efforts, showing the boys exactly what it means to be an athlete here at Port Huron High.

Never did the players give up and all the hard work and determination became worth it when varsity players Jonah Bell '13 and Trevor Goodwin '12 placed third in regionals. The Big Reds pushed toward their goals of winning, kept up their hard work, and completed a satisfactory season.

Both teams had an exceptionally great year and were always looking for ways that they can improve, and to help their team achieve another victory. "My biggest accomplishment was getting first place in a tournament," senior Colin Koester proudly stated.

I. Giving it his all, Tyler Hewett '12 uses the hours of practice to his advantage, and continues to improve and perfect his tennis skill.

II. Into an intense game, Collin Koester '11 keeps his eye on the ball, expressing the hardwork that goes into being an athlete on the boys tennis team.

III. With an aggressive back hand, Evan Jex '13 shows his talents on the court. Swinging toward another victory, he works to perfect his game.

V. Practice is of vital importance to any sport, working on his game Andy Chen '14 anticipates a rally, playing the base line in singles.

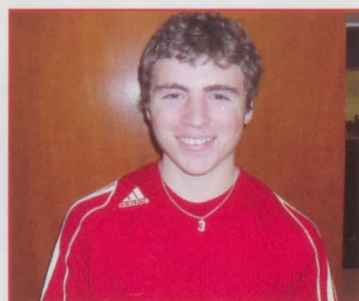

"My favorite part about tennis was really the winning. If I were to give advice to someone wanting to join the team it would be to definitely practice in the off season."

Trevor Goodwin '12

"This is my third year playing tennis for the school and my favorite experience would probably be the bus rides before the games, talking and laughing with my team mates and friends."

PUMP UP THE BIG RED SPIRIT

"I love to compete and I love to be a part of a team," said senior Laura Forsman. Cheering wasn't just about revving up the crowd at the basketball games. Both varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders practiced their hardest to perfect routines that they took to competitions. This year the team went to many competitions and made it to the MHSAA State Finals.

At practices after school, the cheerleaders practiced jumps, splits, tumbling, stunts, and facials. The cheerleading coaches, however, weren't just looking for cheerleaders who could do the best flips, they were also looking for cheerleaders with good spirits and peppy personalities.

Making sure the team works well together and has good chemistry is an important part of how they look when they compete. "Because to support a team, you have to trust your team and act like a team," explained Shelby Hawkins '14. During basketball season, the teams practice to get better. At practices, the girls perfect their cheers, routines, and pumping up the crowd.

This year was the first year in a long time to have a boy try out and make the varsity team. "As a boy on the cheerleading team I'm not aloud to participate in the competitions...the best part about cheerleading is the tumbling," explained junior Sean Boyd.

With only three seniors this year, the teams will be well prepared for the following seasons. "I keep doing it because it's a challenge for me," stated Amanda Lasky '12.

I. Paige Falk '13 and Nariah Meadows '13 do their peppy cheer at one of the quarters during the last game of the season, the Port Huron Northern game.

II. The varsity girls show off their splits in round two of the Midland Districts competition. The Lady Big Reds took third in the competition this year.

III. The freshmen cheer team gets the crowd going in the bleachers. There were ten girls on the freshmen team this year.

RUN HARD OR GO HOME

STORY BY: SHELBY GONZALES PHOTOS BY: TRAVIS MCBRIDE

Competing in long distance, middle distance, relays, sprints, pole vaulting, hurdles, shot put, discus, long and high jump, and javelin, the boys track team had one heck of a season. The Big Reds rose to the top and got work done. It took long practices and hard work for the Big Reds to get their wins. Each of the members joined the track team for a different reason. Travis McBride '10 said "I decided to join the track team because I wanted to get involved more in school, and track gave me a great way to get involved, make new friends, and stay active."

Track was more than physical endurance; it's also mental endurance and having high self confidence.

Every invite or meet was different, sophomore Tyler Debuf said "The Marysville invite was my favorite." Just like anything else in life, track took practice. Carl Portis-Hollier '13 said his favorite way of practicing was by "conditioning and stretching."

During the Huskey Relay, the Big Reds placed second and in the the Marysville Invitational, the Big Reds placed fourth. The team had a great season and won four out of their six meets. Their dual meet record was four-two and their league record was three-two. With the help of Head Coach Michael Pionk and Assistant Coach Bill Prout, the boys track team had a stupendous season with lots of memories formed for the underclassmen, and for the seniors who put in so much work over their four years of competing in their best events.

I. In mid-air, with great determination, Tyler Debuf '13 uses his momentum to increase his distance with this jump to help the team.

II. Just receiving the baton from his teammate, with great stamina, Nathaniel Fraiser '12 hits his stride to keep his distance in front of the others.

III. Completing his hurdles at the Marysville meet, Theodore Kruse '11 stretches his way toward victory, keeping his jumps high and mighty.

IV. During the middle distance race, Anthony Aguinaga '11 runs at a steady pace as he keeps his head high all the way to the finish line.

V. Competing in the relay race, David Jelinek '10 races to get to his teammate so he can pass the baton off and keep the lead.

VI. Running his relay, John Stockwell '12 races toward his partner to pass off the baton. If a runner drops it, they are disqualified.

VII. Beating out their Marysville opponent, Justin Bonney '13 and Tyler Mueller '11 finish the race with great stamina and dedication.

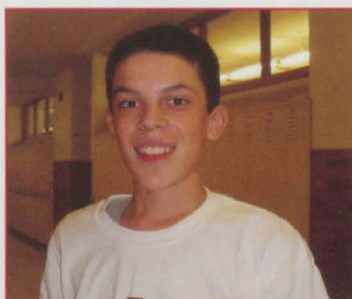

VII. Winning the relay, Jacob Prout '10 beats out his opponents by a hair, giving the Big Reds more points for their total score.

SWINGING FOR THE FENCES

STORY BY: BRYAN HANSON AND ANDREW PHILLIPS PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

That was the mentality the Big Reds baseball program had last season. Varsity had started the season off strong winning their first six games of the season and continuing that for the middle part of the season. The team had ended the season with a below .500 winning percentage with an overall record of 16-17. They had managed to make it to districts, but the road ended early. A few steals by David Seppo '10 and a homerun by Tyler Rowbotham '12 helped out, but the hole was dug deep already being down by ten.

The season had its moments with David Seppo '10 breaking the stolen base record. The previous record was 21 held by Jordan Galanos. Seppo upped that by 3, with a new record of 24 stolen bases. Seppo stated, "It was my goal coming into this season." Kenny Rhadigan '10 had a great pitching season and had many memorable moments. "Playing the game Flip" was memorable "because it brought the team closer." Also memorable was Greg Marshall '10 who tied the most wins as a pitcher for a season with eight. The Big Reds ended the season by taking fourth in the MAC Blue, and beating Northern both times.

The JV team also had a good season with a .500 winning percentage Kyle Moran '12 stated, "My most memorable moment would have to be beating Northern twice and hitting .500." The freshmen team had a good season as well, improving their skills and learning teamwork for their future on the varsity level.

I. During practice Mark Rini '10, second baseman/infielder, fields a grounder and tries to throw out the baserunner heading to first.

II. Trying to perfect his swing, senior Mohammad Fayyad '10, First baseman, takes batting practice to get critiqued from the coaching staff.

III. Stepping into the batters box, shortstop/infielder, Kyle Moran '12 stares down the pitcher while the catcher from Marysville High School gives the sign.

IV. As trouble arises, Coach Schwehofer calls his team to the mound for a meeting to settle his pitcher and players down during a game.

V. As his teammates hang on the fence to cheer him on, Evan Jex '13, outfielder, swings for contact to help get his teammates fired up for a rally.

"My best memory of the season would have to be the end of the season when we beat northern because it was the most intense game of the year and one of the biggest."

Zachary Davis '12

"The team had ended up being very intense, competitive, and encouraging throughout the season no matter how many games we won or lost."

GIRLS BEST FRIEND

Spring weather can be unpredictable; the one thing that remained a constant was the PHHS excitement. Jocelyn DuPuie '13 stated that before a softball game she gets "really excited and pumped to play."

The Varsity team was coached by Ms. Kris Pettengill and Assistant Coach Mr. Dave Koester. Catherand Thornsberry '11 stated, "Best softball game of my life was last season against Warren Mott. A 12 inning game, three up-three down all the way. Even though I did not play one second, it was amazing! We won of course. The only down side was that only the starters played (which wasn't me) but the people on the bench did not even care because we were apart of the game as well, because we never stopped cheering. To me, if you don't cheer your teammates on the field, you're giving up on them. If you're on the bench, you're still in the game."

The junior varsity team was coached by Mr. Chris Kozlowski along with Assistant Coach Mr. Dave Koester. Their season ended with a .660 winning average. Aleena Davis '12 reminisces about her team, "I'm really happy with how our team played. We got along good and had a pretty good season."

The freshmen team was coached by Mrs. Sue Falk with the help of Assistant Coach Ms. Courtney Tuffin. "I think this was a fair season, we worked as a team, lost as a team and just had fun," said Alexandria Wheelihan '13. Antonia Moncrief '13 also stated "we improved a lot" in the freshmen season.

I. Helping the Big Reds freshmen softball team to a victory, pitcher Carrie Gamble '13 tries to strike out the opposing batter.

II. Beginning her wind up, varsity pitcher Katie Neitzke '12 prepares to stike out the batter of the opposing team. Katie moved up from JV to Varsity.

III. At a home game, the players show good sportsmanship, as the varsity team congratulates the L'Ance Creuse Lancers on their win.

IV. Getting ready to release the ball, junior varsity pitcher Heather Weiss '13 winds up for the pitch. Heather was a returning player for the Big Reds.

V. Junior Varsity batter Jade Rhone '12 follows through with her swing while trying to hit a home run. Jade also played outfield for the Big Reds.

KICKING HARD

AIMING HIGH

STORY BY: SHEENA SERSHA & CASSIE SMITH PHOTOS BY: TRAVIS MCBRIDE

As they ran down the field, thoughts jumbled and wind in their hair, the varsity and junior varsity ladies soccer teams worked hard for a great season. They kept their head held high as the girls fought physically and emotionally, and showed their Big Red pride. "Coming together is a beginning, keeping together is a progress, and working together as a team is a success!" said senior Kristen Warsinske, a varsity midfielder.

When they had the ball in their possession, these girls were always on their toes, trying to stay one step ahead of the game and making sure to keep both eyes looking out for a crossover, an open player or even an open net. "Ball control isn't something you have, it's something you practice for" said Molly Aguinaga '13. But when there weren't enough open opportunities to score, the girls kept their chins up and always remembered to keep moving forward.

"I am a member of a team, and I rely on the team, I defer to it and sacrifice for it, because the team, not the individual, is the ultimate champion," quoted Ashley Gracey '10 from professional soccer player Mia Hamm. During the season, the lady Big Reds had endless practices throughout the year to make sure they kept up their game. In the end, the varsity and junior varsity girls made a great season of memories and were ready to take on the challenge of next year's games with their heads held high, wind in their hair, running fast, thoughts jumbled, kicking hard, and aiming high for the goal!

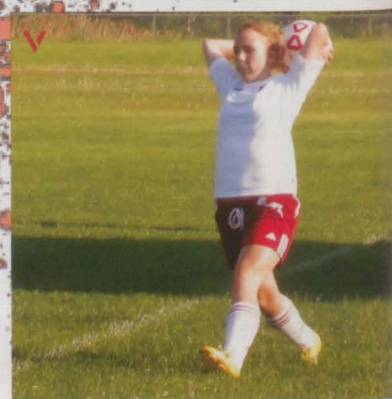

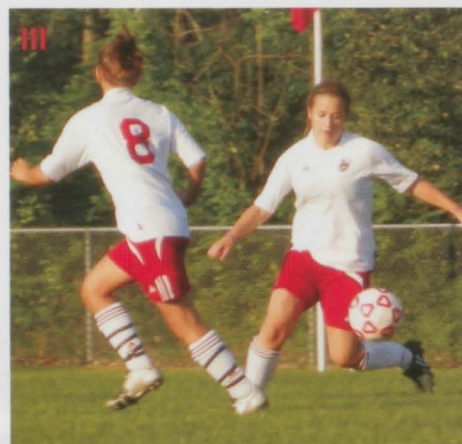

I. Moving stealthily, Courtney Corby '12 snakes her way down the field toward the goal to score a point. Corby was a forward on varsity.

II. Forward Taylor Johnston '11 and defender Alyssa Gibbs '12 fight for the ball against Chippewa Valley, trying to make a goal.

III. Keeping the ball in motion, Krystal Draveling '10 makes a pass to Ashley Gracey '10, running down the field towards the net.

IV. Coach Kopydlowski goes over strategies with the varsity team and ready them for the game. Coach K. has been coaching for four years.

V. With the ball over her head, Taylor Smith '13 readies to put the ball back in and make a play. Smith is a defender on varsity.

DREAM BIG

PLAY BIG, WIN BIG

The majority of team sports have the same key to success which include working hard on and off the field. "Before the season began, we ran almost everyday at seven in the morning and worked on getting in shape," said Jordan Zuehlke '13. The boys showed that working hard and working together pays off.

The team got ready for the tough season by conditioning throughout the summer. "The soccer program has one week of conditioning before tryouts, which is very helpful," said Justin Bonney '13. The week consisted of running sprints and long distances to improve their speed. They continued to improve their speed throughout the season by running and doing drills at practice. Come game time, the boys were ready to face their opponents.

Since everyone had a different position, everyone needed to perform a specific job to defeat their opponent. The average midfielder will run up to five miles in a game, and goalkeepers must have their head in the game at all times. It is very important that everyone fulfills their duties to achieve success.

Many people would think that their toughest competition was cross town rival Northern, but most of the team agreed with Levi Nelson '11. "Our toughest competition was ourselves," he stated, "because we played at the caliber of the teams we were facing." In the end, everything came down to teamwork and hard work. Both the junior varsity and varsity teams illustrated these keys throughout the season.

I. Twenty-two yards away from the goal, Nathan Robinson '14 kicks the ball to try to score a free kick. He was one of four freshmen who made junior varsity.

II. Keeping his eye on ball, Colton Currah '12 watches for his opponents next move so he can try to bypass the ball from a player during a Dakota game.

III. At practices, the boys stretch and warm up for a good work out, while listening to the coaches give directions and feedback.

IV. Joshua Jones '11 and Cameron Babcock '13 watch where the ball is landing, so they can determine their next move on the field.

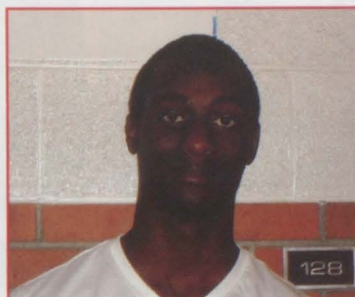

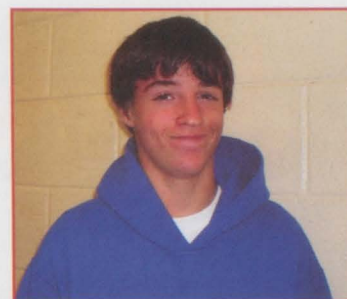

V. As Varsity finishes scrimmaging each other, some of the Junior Varsity players watch for tips and tricks before their scrimmage.

VI. Anthony Aguinaga '11 stays close to his opponent so he can steal the ball and kick it to one of his teammates.

"In soccer, it is very important to have teamwork. It is impossible to win a game if you're a one-man show."

Christopher Webb '14

"Teamwork is essential, and you can't have teamwork without chemistry. Any game that we played well, we had trust in our teammates. With trust comes chemistry, with chemistry follows teamwork."

GOING THE DISTANCE

STORY BY: SELINA COLLINGE & MEHGAN HILLER PHOTOS BY: BRYAN HANSON

Do you think running a mile is hard? It's nothing to the cross country team. They ran 3.1 miles every meet, and about four to five miles every practice. In cross country, as in golf, the team with the lowest score or in this case, the best time, won. It took a lot of determination, self-motivation, and motivation from teammates as well. "The cross country team is like one big family. We always have fun together while encouraging each other and working hard," said Haley Emery '13. A new change was that Ms. Laurel Groner took over the girls team from Mr. George Moger.

Before each meet, the runners did different things to get pumped. "Before each race, I try to clear my mind. Then, once everything is relaxed, I focus on anything that makes me angry and use the anger as fuel to run harder," explained Tyler Mueller '11. For encouragement, the girls also yelled their famous saying this year, "Run like a nut!"

The favorite meet for the majority of the runners was the Muskrat Classic, held at Algonac High School. It was the favorite location because it is mostly flat ground and the team ran very well. "It's a nice fast course and you get to finish on the track. It's pretty awesome," said Shelby Crane '14.

The cross country team was more than just a group of people who liked to run. There was a lot of teamwork involved, and they did a lot of bonding. "My favorite part about cross country was all the practices, and how everybody could be so serious about running and still tell jokes and have a good time," said Mason Wesley '13.

I. Flanked by Marysville and Marine City, the girls vie for a position at the Marysville Invitational. The team placed 12th overall.

II. In mid-stride, Friedrich Krauss '11 and Justin Bonney '13 run hard as the Cros-Lex Pioneers trail behind. The boys finished the race in 5th place.

III. Senior Tyler Mueller keeps a steady pace while keeping an eye on his opponent. Tyler Mueller was the team captain for the 2010 season.

IV. In his second year on the team, Graham Prout '13 maintains his stride and finishes the race for a Big Red victory.

With a new season, new players, and new team challenges arise. Jalynn Diggins '14 said "The only challenging part about being on the team is making new teammates."

Many of the junior varsity volleyball girls stated that their favorite game was against the Marysville Vikings. Jalissa Zuege '13 stated, "The Marysville game was the best because I used to go there, and we killed them! Also, we all played as a team and had a lot of fun, probably the most fun we had all season!"

The freshmen team won their first tournament at Oxford. Lauren Pringle '14 said, "I guess you could say we were on fire through out the entire tournament. Everyone always had a good attitude and was just up and ready to play. But I think the biggest thing was that we actually played as a team or as a real family of volleyball players. So, it was a big accomplishment for us."

The girls practiced being aggressive, moving their feet, and controlling the ball. But most importantly, they were having fun. Melissa Harvill '14 said, "It doesn't matter if you win or lose, only if you have fun, keep playing the ball and don't give up on your teammates."

On the court the girls tried to stay focused and pumped up. Some girls stated that they tried to think about winning and also going all out and not letting the ball drop to the floor. Alicia Scheffler '13 remembered the good advice her mother had once given her "Show your coach you are not a quitter by proving to them that you can do anything."

I. Jalissa Zuege '13 steadily watches the ball and quickly moves towards it while Andrea Hutchinson is preparing for the bump over the net.

II. Andrea Hutchinson '13, Nichole Ransberger '14, Taylor Marsh '13, Breanna Hansen '14, Jalissa Zuege '13 and Ronni Price '13 get ready for a good game.

III. Nichole Ransberger '14 is focused and patiently waiting in position for the other team to volley the ball back over the net.

IV. As Taylor Marsh '13, Jalissa Zuege '13, and freshmen Nichole Ransberger and Breanna Hansen stand prepared, Ceaira Doan '14 bumps the ball over the net.

V. Nichole Ransberger '14, Andrea Hutchinson '13, Breanna Hansen '14 are in position to serve the ball back to the other team.

VI. The whole Junior Varsity team is getting pumped up for their exciting match with their traditional cheer they do at every game.

Ahhhh Red, eh!!!! Before a big game, the varsity volleyball team sang their victory song to get them pumped up and ready to battle on the court. Senior captain Sydney Jones stated, "The cheers before the game is what helps us get excited." Not only did these girls need their victorious cheers to help encourage them to do their best, they also needed practice so they could learn how to master the moves. When they were not preparing for a win, the varsity volleyball girls were busy maintaining academics and their crazy schedules. Maeghan Murphy '12 stated, "Juggling it all and school work is tiring and exhausting but it needs to be done to actually play volleyball."

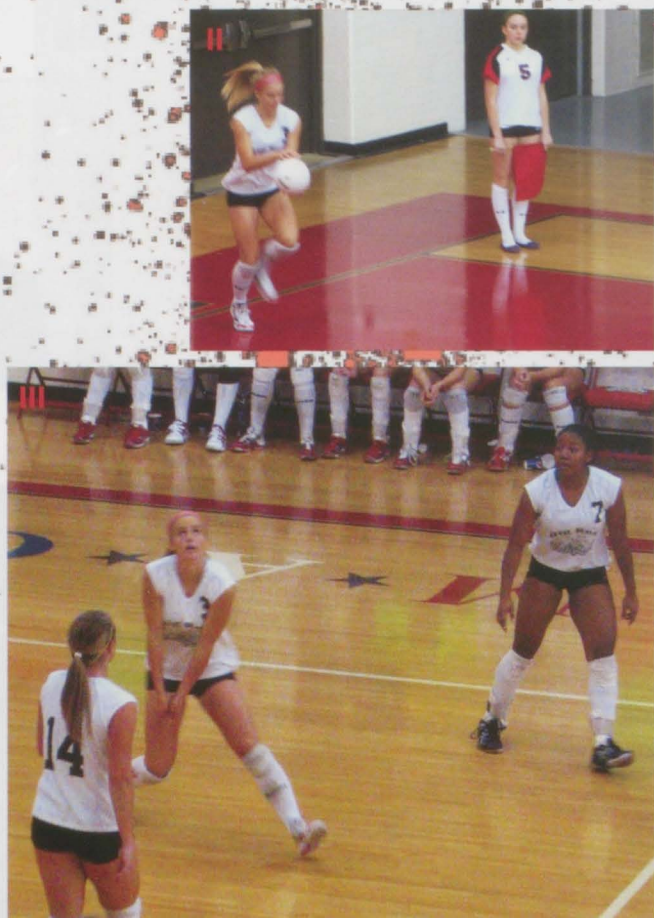

The intensity of the game was just as extreme as it looked, especially when the game was neck to neck and anyone could have taken the win. Courtney Corby '12 explained, "The most intense part is when there is a back and forth rally when the game is on the line." Fellow teammate Amanda Goodwin '12 agreed, "When the games are really close the whole atmosphere is intense."

Besides the intensity and pressure to win game, volleyball players also thought that it was fun and exciting. Just as sophomore Arica-Rae Apsey stated, "My favorite part about volleyball is getting close to everyone. The team is like a family and I love all my sisters."

I. The varsity volleyball team comes together at a time out. The ladies show their team spirit before going back out to defeat Eisenhower.

II. Courtney Corby '12 gets ready to serve the ball at an attempts to score a point against the opposing team. Nichole Ransberger '14 line, judges in the background.

FEELING THE RUSH

STORY BY: CHELSEA KING & MR. E

PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT & MICHAEL HORSEY

Few things can compare to the feeling of winning. This feeling is what motivated many athletes and kept them coming back practice after practice after practice. Stephon Macey '14 stated that the reason he plays football was his "passion for the sport and when your team wins and makes good plays, the thrill and adrenaline rush."

Junior Varsity player Adrien Lee '13 held a similar opinion: "Being in the game listening to all the fans cheer for me and the team whether we lose or win a game, is the good part of me sacrificing getting hurt. It's the team that matters in the end." The football teams were supported by both the cheerleaders and the other fans in the stands.

Whether the Big Reds won or lost, they still showed determination and character to get through the season. Nolan Murphy '14 knows that the football field is one of the few places he "can just hit someone" and get away with it. Murphy also stated that being able to "play for my school" was a motivating factor behind joining the football program.

Aside from the pride of playing for the school, the thrill and intensity of the sport is what hooked both Donovan Moore '14 and Donovan Malone '14. Malone stated that, "the joy you get when you win or score a touchdown" pumped him up. Moore also enjoyed "the intensity of the game when you intercept the ball countless numbers of times or when you run back a kick off return or just plain being able to play in the game."

I. Freshman Anthony Dobson is in position to cover an offensive player from Port Huron Northern. The freshmen team dominated the Huskies 52-20.

II. Working to shake off his opponent, Brandon Baker '14 stands his ground. The freshmen team played on Thursday nights to set the stage for the varsity team.

III. Wide receiver Tyler DeBuf '13, number 48, receives instruction from the coaching staff during a break in action. Debuf also played the linebacker position.

IV. As the ball is snapped, the junior varsity football team gets in formation to run their routes. Number 60, Kevin Hernandez '13 leads the way through the offensive line.

V. The Big Red freshmen defense strategizes before returning to the line. The defense was led by Malik Edwards '14.

RED! RED! RED!

AHHHHOOOOHHH!!

STORY BY AND PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

With helmets, pads, and plenty of water, the thirty-nine varsity players took on the hot summer weather to start conditioning for the upcoming season.

After a loss against Cousino at the beginning of the season, the varsity football team came back strong with victories over Sterling Heights, Clintondale, L'anse Creuse, Grosse Pointe South, and Madison Heights.

With the support of the Tribe and other spectators, the Big Reds took on cross town rival Port Huron Northern for the most anticipated game of the season. The Big Reds defensive line maintained a strong hold on the Huskies by allowing them to only score ten points throughout the whole game.

Defensive back, senior Jarret Chapman won the Tubby Meyers award for the varsity team and was also nominated for Most Valuable Player of all of the high school football teams in St. Clair County by The Times Herald.

Other awards received by players during the year were the Harry Anderle award for defensive alertness won by senior Dominic Schultz and the Principles Hammer Award for leadership and responsibility shown by an athlete was given to senior Glen Hartman.

The team ended their season with a record of five wins and four losses. For the third year in a row, the Varsity team qualified for the Division Two Playoffs. The Big Reds took third place in the MAC Blue division standings. So, all in all, The Big Reds played their hardest and their best.

I. During the first game of the season against Cousino, senior Richard Drummond does his best to, block the opponent from getting to the ball carrier.

II. After being tackled during the game against Cousino, Terez Watkins '12 talks to the teams sports trainer about his pain and possible injuries.

III. Going for the touchdown during the forth down, the Big Red offensive line gets ready to make the play with hopes of scoring.

PEP, PUNCH, AND POWER

STORY BY: CHLOE SCHMITT AND MOLLY AGUINAGA PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

"Everybody do that big red rumble, everybody do that rumble, rumble, everybody.....RUMBLE!!!!!!" Pumped up and ready to go, the cheerleaders got the stands going with one of the many crowd favorites. Cheerleaders have many skills such as showing school pride and being a good sport. Stacey Jacobs '12 said, "My favorite part about cheerleading is when I see the cheer team succeeding, whether it is in a stunt or a new cheer; I love the feeling of accomplishing something together!"

Being a cheerleader is more than just the Friday night football games, there's much more behind the scenes that the average spectator doesn't see. Everyday leading up to the game is practice, practice, practice. The cheerleaders practice new stunts, perfect their cheers, and make posters for the football players.

When asked how long do you practice and is it fun Melissa Lash '13 said, "We practice two hours everyday after school Monday thru Thursday, it's a lot of fun but a lot of hard work too". Another requirement looked for in a PHHS cheerleader is multitasking and being able to move from stunt group to stunt group. To do a stunt you must have a flyer, two bases, a back spot, and a spotter. A flyer is the person who gets thrown into the air, flyer Sydney Barnes '13 said, "every member of the stunt must put in their best effort; you must have confidence for the stunt to go up." All the hard work, practicing, and dedication makes for a perfect team.

I. Hidden amongst her teammates, JV flyer Erica Oriel '14, comes out of a new handstand stunt while her teammates catch her.

II. Cheering the school fight song, Alexandria Bramer '12 and her teammates in the season opener. The band plays the fight song after a touchdown.

III. The JV cheerleaders yell "Let's go!" as the football team battles against Lanse Cruese. The cheer is an original, one of the many made by the girls this season.

IV. The freshmen cheerleading team shouts out a cheer to get the freshmen football players excited and ready to score a touchdown.

V. Varsity cheerleaders do one of their most popular cheers, "everybody do that big red rumble." The tribe section joins in to cheer the Big Reds to victory.

"[The best part of being in cheerleading] is being with my friends and working together to make the team better!"

Karly Schrader '13

"The TRIBE is most definitely the best part about football games. They are awesome in every way. They pump us up. The crowd goes wild when we get touch downs. Its very exciting, you can almost feel and see the energy from them."

When asked what keeps Madison Easton '14 motivated she said, "When we're having fun playing and my teammates are getting along, it keeps me motivated because we are all doing something we love." Two of the most important aspects in the game of basketball are fun and love for the game.

With practice, the love for the game and having fun while playing caused triumph to come effortlessly. "Once we get a victory, we know all of our hard work has paid off. The feeling of improvement gives us the confidence we need to move on and win future games," said Taylor Marsh '13.

To keep the girls motivated, they relied on their teammates as well. This year, the freshmen team had the motto "Together" printed on the back of their shirts to show that together, they can accomplish anything. "Knowing that we are all on a team and we depend on each other so much helps to keep me motivated," explained Caitlyn Heath '14.

Staying motivated is very important for keeping up with the season, because they had practice everyday after school and stress filled games later in the nights. During practice, the girls worked on dribbling and shooting drills, plays, and scrimmaging to get used to the game situations they encountered. When the games approached, they demonstrated the skills they learned at practice causing the score to continuously rise. The junior varsity team ended their season with an overall record of 15 - 5. As Coach Andrea Johnson would say, "If you're going to play a game, you might as well win it."

I. Callie Rathje '12 gets in position and stays focus as she shoots free throws at a home game against Gross Pointe South.

II. Attempting to bypass the opposite team, Shelby Thompson '14 watches for a opportunity to reach the basket for a lay up shot.

III. Junior varsity player Amanda Langolf '13 looks for a open player and keeps the basketball out of reach from her opponent.

IV. The freshmen team comes together during a time out to discuss with their coaches what their next motive is to pull through and win there game against Anchor Bay.

V. Trying to run a play, Bridgette Johnson '12, brings the ball up the court while Callie Rathje '12 runs to give her an open player.

VI. Celeste Griffin '14 goes up to the basket for a left handed lay up while Amber Green '14 stands by to get the rebound.

LEAVE IT ALL ON THE COURT

STORY BY: AMANDA LANGOLF PHOTOS BY: CATHERAND THORNSBERRY

They rush onto the court ready for the game, the basketball being bounced firmly under the palms of their hands. All season the ladies worked to get better, and practiced everyday to achieve their victories. Being at the varsity level was not an easy achievement. It took all of the ladies hard work and dedication to the sport to be able to make it this far, doing their best in and out of the gym. The season kicked off with harsh conditioning, followed by intense training. Taking their skills to the court, the Lady Big Reds did their best every minute that they were playing. Continuously trying their hardest to keep up with the standards their coaches set.

This year the Lady Big Reds defeated their cross-town rivals the Port Huron Northern Huskies at home, with a victory of 55-43. This win led to the ladies to claim the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division title. This particular victory had not occurred in ten years, and with only nine players able to take the court, due to injuries, it was an amazing accomplishment for the team.

With the honor of being on the Lady Big Reds basketball team, the girls showed pride, setting great examples for their peers. Even with all the games and practices, the players stayed on top of their academics, representing the school the best they can. This year the team said goodbye to their three senior players: Darchelle Mitchell, Sydney Jones and Candice Gunter. None the less, there will still be talented ladies back on the court doing work next season.

I. The ladies talk to one another on the bench, preparing each other for the rest of the game. Team support was a primary need for victory.

II. Senior Sydney Jones takes a jump shot, warming up for the shots she's going to take in the game as Adriana Jordan '12 awaits the rebound.

III. Pushing toward another victory the ladies go to work on defense. The Big Reds play with a aggressive game time spirit, not giving up with out a fight.

IV. Senior Darchelle Mitchell keeps her eye on the hoop, practicing to better her shot. Staying pumped and focused will ready her for when the buzzer sounds.

V. Starting the game with a jump ball, Heather Weiss '12 swats the ball out of her opponents hand, giving the Big Reds first possession of the ball.

"My favorite experience while on the team was when we beat Northern and won MAC champs. My favorite part about being on the team was just being around the girls having fun."

Candice Gunter '11

"With this season ending I am really going to miss the seniors, Syd, Darchelle and Candy. The most memorable experience this year was when the team beat the Huskies for the MAC champs."

He's running, dribbling, he shoots, and he scores. The crowd screamed for the victory of the Big Reds. Both student and athlete Big Reds had an outstanding amount of school spirit. Basketball is a significant sport at school, students came to watch and support their classmates and their team. "Teamwork is important but we just likes to have fun and when we do have fun, that's when we usually win!" stated freshman Donovan Moore.

At Port Huron High School, all team members contributed to the game. "I like scoring the most because, I feel like a good contribution to the team," stated Mason Wesley '13. For those the Big Reds team is defined as family. The boys went through the year becoming closer than ever, creating a fun and up beat environment. When asked what the best thing about his team was, sophomore Tyler Debuf stated, "The best thing about our team is that we are very hard workers, which contributes to our success through this year."

When the teams got heated up and excited about a game, they won and did their best. The teams seemed to pull through the most when they all worked together. Big Red players were always thrilled to be either on the floor, or cheering their team on the bench. Working hard, both the freshmen and junior varsity teams pulled through for an excellent year. "Our basketball team has high standards, What I like most about basketball is the winning because I never lose," stated sophomore Jalen Esters.

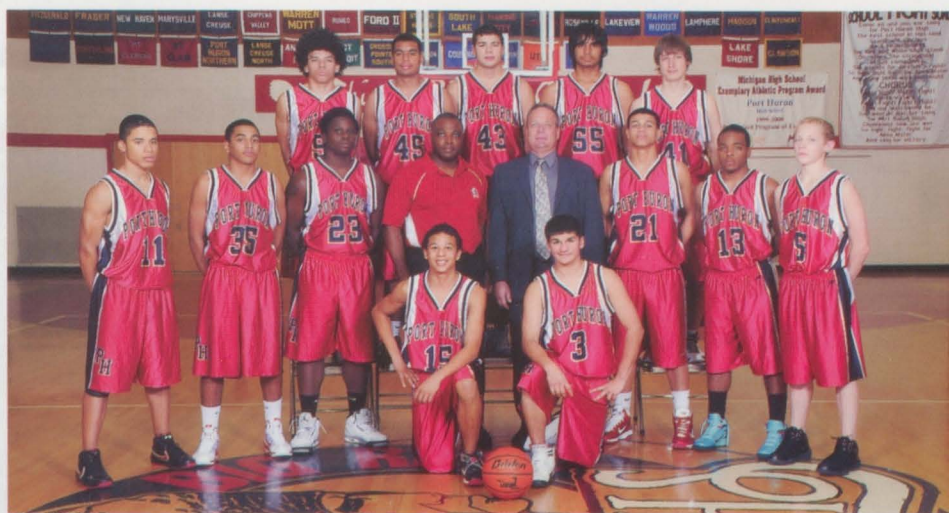

I. Number 32, freshman William Lemon lines up for his shot. In the 2010-2011, he Big Reds basketball team had practiced to a perfection when it came to shooting.

PUSHING PAST THE DEFENSE

STORY BY: CHELSEA KING PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT & CHELSEA KING

With only three seniors on the squad, the Big Reds had a unique and eager team this year. With an inexperienced group, the Big Reds had their work cut out for them. "With only three seniors this year we had to work harder because we had to set an example for the other teammates" said Jordan Small '11. But the Big Reds knew just how to overcome all obstacles.

To help the team prepare for games, the coaching staff not only worked on running plays, but on preparing them mentally and emotionally for challenges on the court. "Our coaches made sure that we were all mentally and physically ready for each and every game," replied Mark Chapman '13. Winslow Chapman '12 said, "What made me nervous the most, would have to be playing in front of all my friends and family and doing something that would throw the game." Mr. Dave Tatti, varsity assistant coach, stated, "No matter if my players won or lost, as long as they went out and played their very best, that's all that matters in the end."

Though the team made it to districts, it wasn't always about winning. To some players just loving the fact that they are on the court doing what they love to do best and represent for their school. Alexander Zmolik '12 added, "I just love feeling that adrenaline rush and playing with my teammates," also commenting, "being able to just play the game and being on the court is what made me love being on the team." The team showed their feelings and spirit on the court, making it a successful season.

READY, SET, PIN HIM DOWN

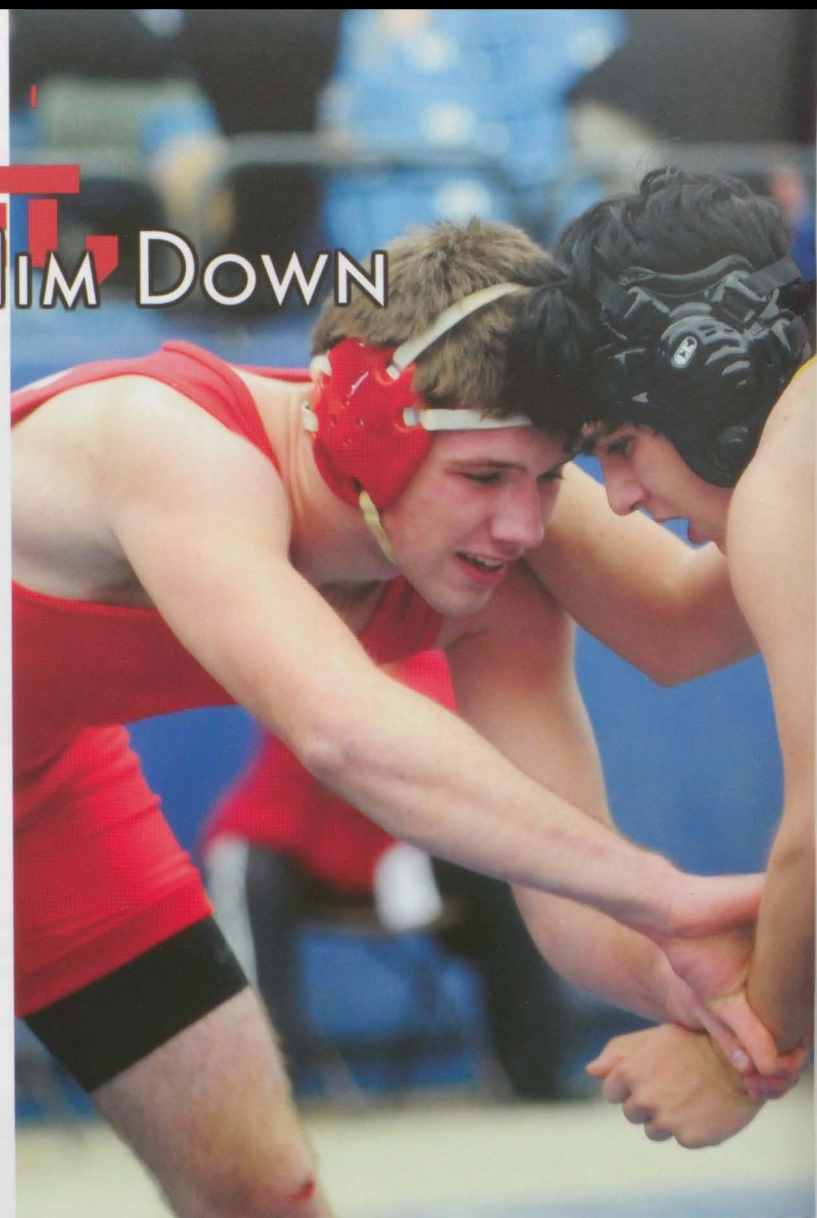

STORY BY: TYLER HEWITT & EMILY MAINGUY

The Big Reds came out strong and hit the mats this winter with all they had! With three hour practices, the Big Reds gave it their all everyday to become the best team they could be, and ended their season with a overall record of 14 - 20. "My season was tough this year, it was cut short due to a situation with another player...I ended up having a record of 12 - 6," explains senior David Fournier.

Some students joined the wrestling team for many different reasons such as: they discovered a new love for wrestling, they wanted to stay in shape, or they just wanted to try something new and exciting. "The reason I kept coming back every year was because I like the feeling of winning," said Jeffery Macumber '11. But some players had been wrestling since middle school, and for others this was their first year. "I've been wrestling since I was in 7th grade but I'm going to miss it next year," said senior wrestler Connor Palmateer.

During practices, the wrestlers learned moves such as the chicken-wing, half nelson, and cross face. They also got into shape by running, and learning how to use the new moves taught to them during a match. At practices, they also found out their weight class which they had to keep steady through out the season.

One of the biggest upsets during the season was the Division one final game against Anchor Bay at Port Huron Northern, which was a close match but the Big Reds pulled through to finish with a score of 33 to 45.

I. Getting ready to start a match, senior Michael LaForge stands ready to take down an opponent from Port Huron Northern.

II. During a match, sophomore Adam Runnals wrestles his opponent from Anchor Bay trying hard to get the pin and win the match.

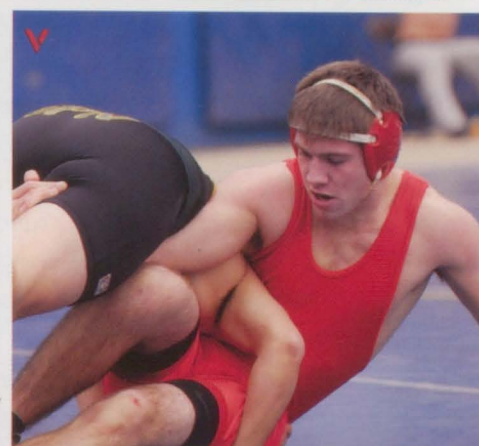

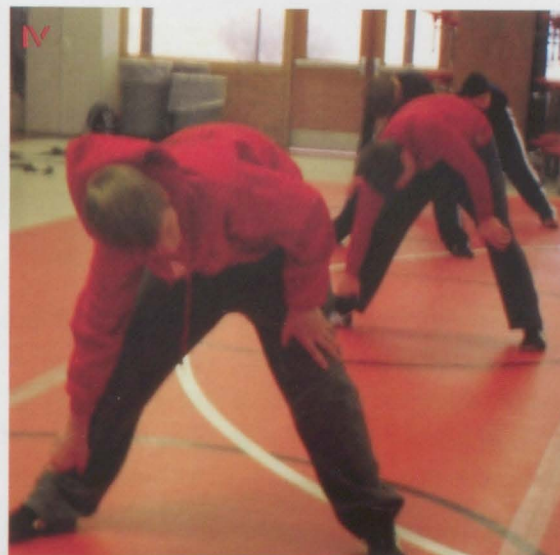

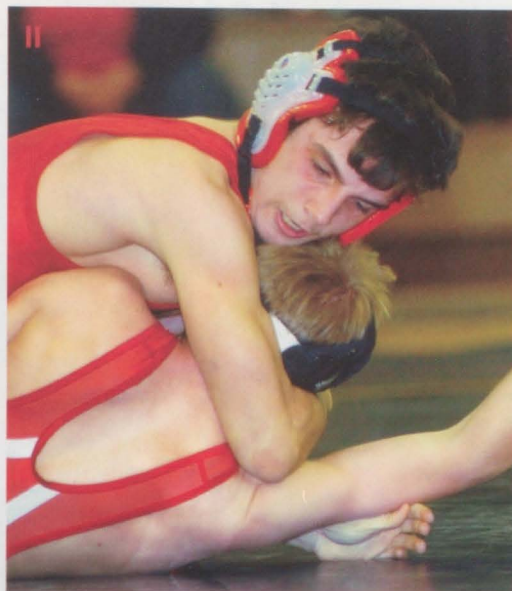

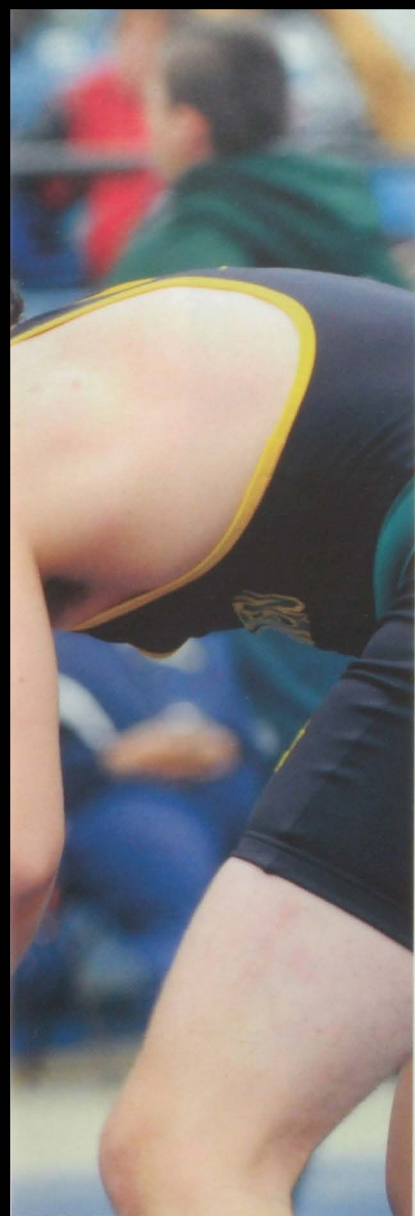

III. PH wrestler Chase Davis '14 struggles to put his opponent into a head lock, and receives the pin and the point for his team.

IV. Port Huron Wrestlers stretch out before during and after they run at their practices to stay in shape for the season and avoid injury.

V. Trying to get a pin in the 171 pound weight class, senior Michael LaForge struggles to take out his opponent on the mat.

BREAKING THE ICE

STORY BY: BRYAN HANSON & JAMIE WALKER PHOTOS BY: SHELBY GONZALES

All that was heard were plenty of cheers this year from the fans and coaches of the Big Reds varsity hockey squad. The team had plenty of scorers and, as a result a handful, of wins, but everyone knows that offense wins games and defense wins championships. The team had a rocky season, but there were many highlights. Junior King Thomason stated, "Getting my first goal, gave our team more intensity, and brought the crowd in the game." Freshman Collin Wolfe also went on to say, "I enjoyed meeting all the players, and improving my game through the countless practices that we had."

The team battled hard against Port Huron Northern and St. Clair, who were their biggest rivals. As a result of their up and down season, they ended the with a record of 10-11-3 and finished 4th in the MAC. From there, they headed to districts in Macomb but came up short, though not without a battle, only losing 1-0.

Port Huron High and Port Huron Northern had a combined girls hockey team, and they were known as the Lady Icehawks. This season there were only four girls from Port Huron on the team. The Lady Icehawks took an amazing 7-0 winning victory against the team from Detroit Country Day. Their season started out slow but they worked hard for some victories, ending the season with a record of 10-11 overall. The team made it to playoffs this year, and though they lost, they fought hard on the ice. Overall, the Lady Icehawks had a good season and they are working hard to make sure next year is just as good.

I. The Lady Icehawks gather around for a timeout while the coach prepares them for the next play to bring them to a victory of 4-3 over the University of Liggett Knights.

II. Scrambling to win the face off and gain possession of the puck, sophomore Austin Fetterly battles with the center from St. Clair.

III. The Big Reds get ready for the game as they line up on the blue line for the playing of the National Anthem before the puck drops against their rival St. Clair.

IV. The boys gather together and greet their goalie in their own net to celebrate a hard fought battle that was played in the main arena at McMorran.

V. Waiting for the next rush, starting goaltender Nicholas Pitre '11 stands up to give his legs a break hoping that his teammates can keep the puck in the opponents zone.

With such a variety of clubs, joining different school organizations was a great way for students to make new friends and get involved with the school and community. Huron High School better than ever. With the additions of Forensics Club and C.O.R.A.L, the number of school organizations grew. Traditional clubs, such as Student Council, Yearbook, and Quiz Bowl were refreshed with new advisors and directors.

Students focused on the community joined the National Honor Society and took part in Key Club activities. Those skilled with public speaking participated in Mock Trial and Drama. Some students read their hearts out with the Page Turners, some recycled with the Help Our World club, and others taught exercises in Fun Fitness.

Whether a club honed previously had skills, or helped students discover new talents, it was always an opportunity to establish new friendships and deepen the ones already formed.

TIME FOR CHANGE: NEW YEAR, NEW LEADERS

STORY BY: ANDREW PHILLIPS PHOTOS BY: STAFF

Student leaders plus teamwork equaled positive changes. The Student Council started out the year by holding the officer elections in October. Senior Chelsea Bookrum won the Student Council presidency and junior Courtney Harris was elected Student Council vice president.

Organizing and decorating for the homecoming festivities was one of the council's first priorities. "Homecoming was one of the most exciting and exhausting events to set up," Lina Lu '11 said. Later in the year, the council set up the annual blood drive to help the Red Cross. After the blood drive, helping the hungry was the council's next priority. In order to accomplish this, the council held their yearly canned food drive.

A new addition to the Student Council schedule was Neon Night. The dance was held in January and had a techno theme. Students that attended received free glow sticks and danced the night away among laser beams and fog machines. Compared to last year's dance, Neon Night was a bigger success, with numerous students coming out to support the Student Council. Another new activity was assisting students at Roosevelt Elementary School with their school carnival.

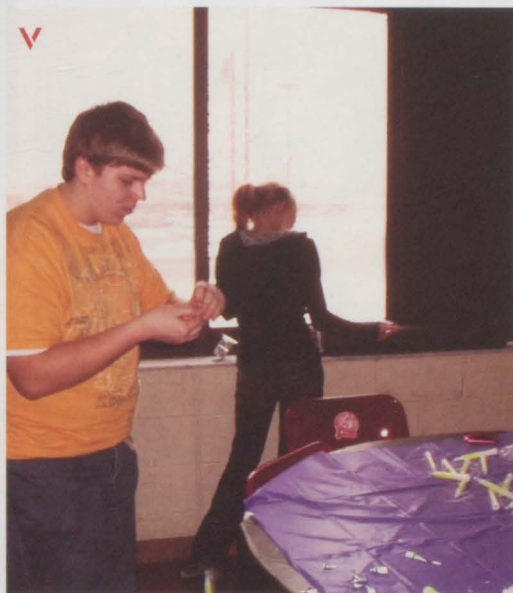

Changing the schedule wasn't the only thing different to Student Council this year. Due to district changes, the administrators of Port Huron High School were the new advisors to the council. Another change was the size of the group, which almost doubled in size compared to the previous year. The students on the council were more in charge of things this year, and enlisted many of their friends for help.

THE MARCHING OF HONORS

STORY BY: BRYAN HANSON PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

The four pillars of society: scholarship, leadership, character, and service. That is the basis of the National Honor Society. The new members of NHS were selected by a panel of teachers who believed that they were capable of handling the responsibility of maintaining a 3.3 grade point average and earning enough service hours to help out the community. Junior John Sienkiewicz stated, "I help the community by bell ringing or some similar things of the sort, and also by tutoring." With last year's seniors leaving, a new court of leaders were needed. Jennifer Noble '11 became president, Taylor Johnston '11 vice-president, Brittany Banks '11 secretary, Sydney Jones '11 treasurer, Lina Lu '11 historian, and Ariana Strieter '11 as volunteer coordinator.

The Port Huron High School chapter of the National Honor Society had 76 returnees and inducted 65 new members. The new members had to write why they would be a good fit for NHS and when they were accepted, the officers came and "tapped" them out of class for free pizza and drinks. Senior Julien Brown said, "It was an enjoyable day, we got out of fourth hour and received free pop and pizza for our accomplishments."

Part of the service element of NHS was helping out at community events, and each member was required to attain eight service hours. NHS members participated in the Festival of Trees, Silver Sticks, Salvation Army bell ringing, and also the Relay for Life. In addition, they put on a Rec Night that had plenty to offer for all the student body.

The National Honor Society has been an honored part of Big Red Country for 88 years, and plans to continue to help out the community and the school and become a leader for tomorrow.

MARCHING WITH SOME SOUL

STORY BY: JAMIE KOEBKE PHOTOS BY: TRAVIS MCBRIDE & KAYLA BROCKITT

Dark sunglasses, an upbeat tempo, and even some tears marked the Big Red Marching Machine's 2010 Stevie Wonder show. They played traditional hits such as "Signed, Sealed, Delivered", "For Once In My Life", and a medley of "Superstition" and "Uptight". Mr. Timothy Hurlbert composed the music and wrote the drill, and director Mr. Dan Griffith taught them everything they needed to know.

While most students like to go to the beach during the first week of August, the Big Red Marching Machine went to camp in Lexington, Michigan. Dealing with smoldering heat, long days, unrestful nights, six hours of basics, and drill work took a toll. Even with all the hard work, there is still a lot of fun to be had. Mercedes Miranda '14 said, "I loved skit night, because it makes you look forward to the rest of the week." Band camp was really where the band learned that in order to sound and look good, they needed to work together to become one band one sound.

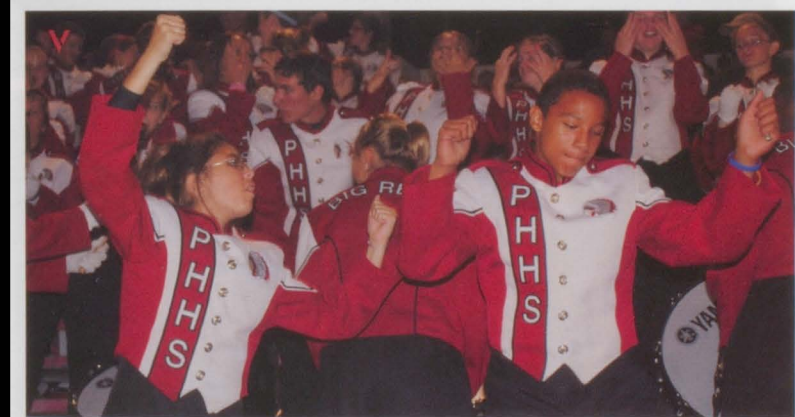

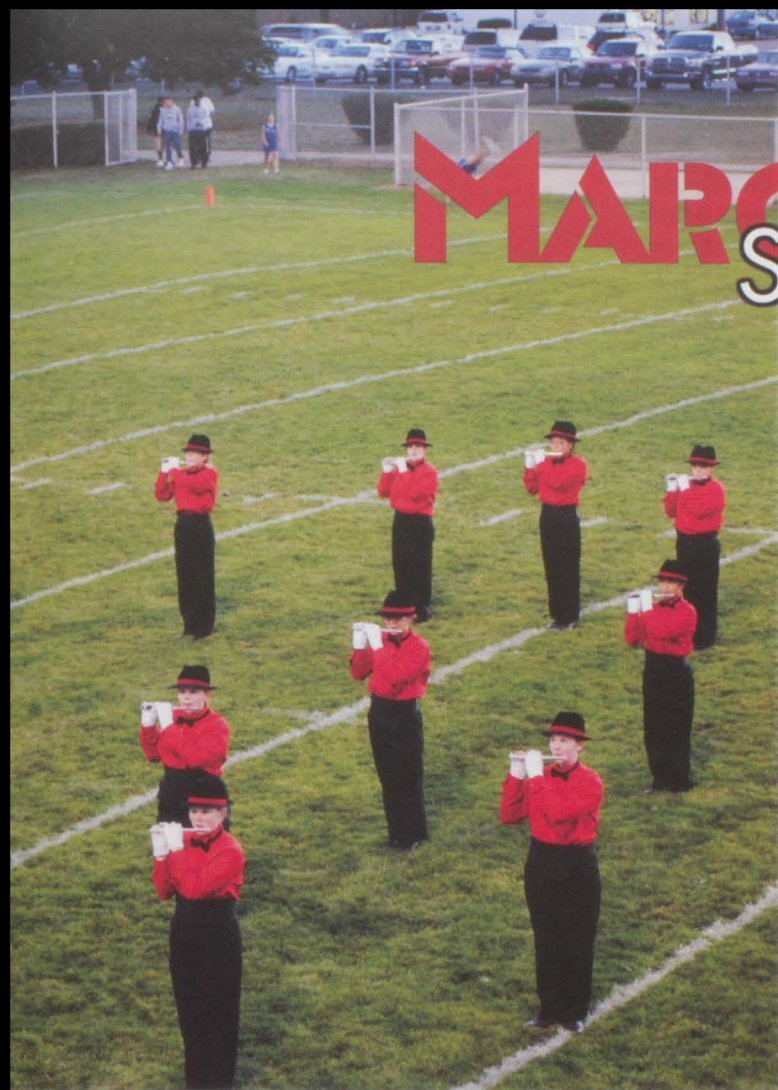

After hours of practice, it was no surprise when they received a division one at MSBOA marching festival. "It felt really good receiving a one at MSBOA because it's my senior year. All of the practices and the work we put in made it all worth it when they announced the one rating," said Jenna Bailey '11.

The Big Red Marching Machine did many things after the football season was over. They put on a spaghetti dinner and did four parades; one of them in Canada. The band was just as loud and energetic at the basketball games, where they played as a pep band, as they were at the numerous football games.

Being in marching band was like having a whole other family who got to connect on a whole other level: a musical level.

REFRESHING YOUR MEMORIES

STORY AND PHOTOS BY: KAYLA BROCKITT

Port Huron High School's The Student yearbook started the year out with some radical changes. New staff members joined the team, a new publisher was chosen, and a new adviser was selected.

"Though Mrs. Zauner stood about five feet tall, she had left some mighty big shoes to fill! Yearbook is definitely a learning experience. Every day brings a new challenge, I really never knew what to expect," said first year adviser Mrs. Elizabeth Tomhave.

The 2010 yearbook staff decided on the theme of "Refresh". With the theme set, some of the staffers spent time out of their summer at different workshops working on layouts, photography ideas, and other fundamentals of yearbook. Senior Editors-in-Chief Emily Mainguy and Shelby Gonzales, Photo Editor Kayla Brockitt '11, and staff member Jamie Koebeke '11 traveled to Anchor Bay High School to attend a two day yearbook workshop hosted by Jostens Publishing.

The dedicated senior staff helped to train new staff members and emphasized that being a member of the yearbook staff takes commitment, attention to detail, and a whole lot of patience. "Yearbook is adventurous and chaotic. It's a lot more work than someone that's not in yearbook would think. Being in yearbook makes you appreciate the book more," said first time yearbook staffer, sophomore Molly Aguinaga.

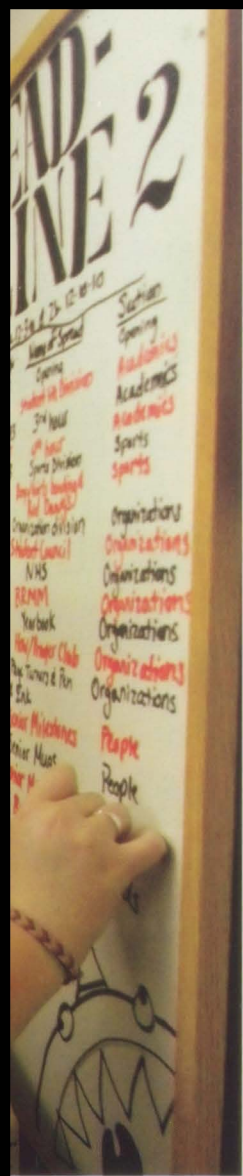

With the goal of getting as many faces in this year's book as possible, the photography staff spent time at sporting and other school events taking as many pictures as possible. "There's a lot more to photography than just taking a photo. You can't just point and shoot and expect to get a good photo," stated first year photographer sophomore Samuel Stier.

TAKING OVER THE STAGE

STORY AND PICTURES BY: SHELBY GONZALES

With a cry of "Ah squeeze-ah squeeze-ah squeeze-ah, ah jump-ah jump-ah jump-ah", the members of Port Huron High School's After School Drama Club took to the stage with high energy. Student thespians kept busy throughout the year, bringing A Night of One Acts, The Man Who Came To Dinner, and How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying to the stage.

Though long-time club advisor, Ms. Melanie Bolt, was still in charge, the club was refreshed with the addition of two new directors, and a new choreographer for the musical. A lot of the Drama Club members felt that the addition was a breath of fresh air. Junior LeeAnn Lum said, "It's something new and they are doing a lot for Drama Club."

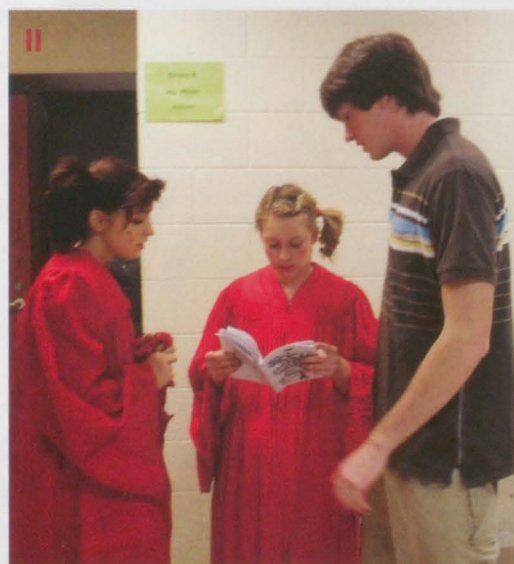

Students in the Drama Club worked their hardest throughout the school year to memorize lines, songs, and choreography. Some Drama Club members also worked hard behind the scenes, focusing on the lighting and sound for each play. Every Wednesday after school they met together to go over new acting techniques and to learn more about improvisation.

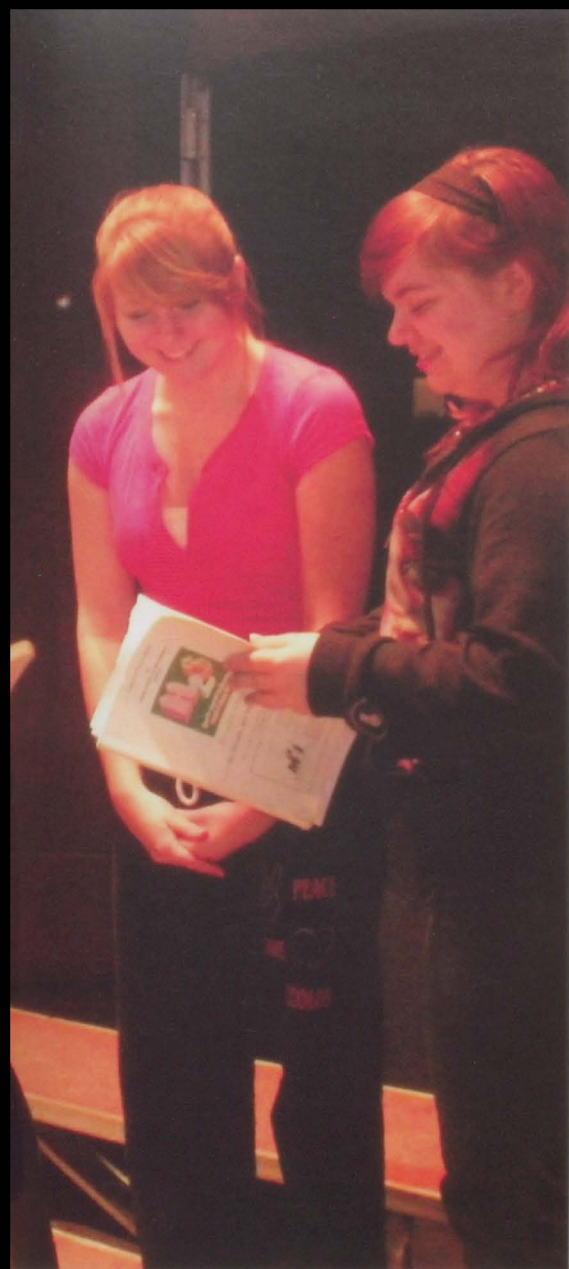

Drama Club wasn't only a place for budding actors and actresses to learn new techniques. It was also a place for students to meet new people and make new friendships. Newcomer Erin Sterling '12 explained her reason for joining, saying, "Drama Club seemed like loads of fun and I wanted to meet new people." For the students that have been in Drama Club since freshman year, their opinions vary. "I don't know why I'm still in drama club," four-year Drama Club member senior Scott Lusk said jokingly, "I hate everyone in it. Ah-huuuh!"

GETTING THOSE QUESTIONS RIGHT

"Getting a question correct feels great because I feel like I am showing the other schools that PH is a school to be reckoned with," sophomore Jordan Fundaro stated. And how true it was, for both the varsity and junior varsity Quiz Bowl teams fought long and hard through the competitions this year and ended with a well deserved 4th place in the ranking.

Taking extra measures to make sure their brains were equipped for the games, the team gathered together on Wednesdays to refresh their memories on all the latest trivia. From science to literature to history, the team worked through all the subjects to practice for their games. Before a competition, sophomore Zachary Shoen listened to scientific podcasts to get prepared right before the game. "The questions are like a box of chocolates, you never know what subject is coming up next," stated junior varsity member Devin Zultak '13.

On February 10th, the varsity and junior varsity competitions were held at Port Huron High. Varsity lost to Yale, 125 to 315, in the first round, but redeemed themselves in the last two rounds scoring 170 to 70 against Armada and 230 to 225 in the final round against Croswell-Lexington. The junior varsity trumped Yale and Armada in the first and second round winning 150 to 130 against Yale and 160 to 20 against Armada, but lost to Croswell-Lexington in the final round.

Only getting five seconds to answer each question, these quick thinkers were always ready with their buzzers. Listening intently to the reader, and mentally taking notes, they worked hard and thought fast to answer the question. Quiz Bowl wasn't all about being serious though, jokes were cracked, and a lot of laughs were made at each match.

When students are passionate about music they would go through anything to do what they love. Even if that meant auditioning in front of a panel of judges to join a club they wanted to be a part of. There were two musical groups at Port Huron High School that only accepted students who went through an audition process and met musical standards of each category. These two groups were A Cappella and Jazz Band.

Many students auditioned, but only a select few joined each. The groups consisted of students of all grades. They worked long and hard on their music and performed for their peers at school concerts and in the community. "The best thing is that we all come together to make music," said senior Courtney Toton.

A Capella used talents of all kinds to perform songs without any instruments behind them. They had to create the notes to songs just by using their voices. The group successfully learned many popular songs such as, "Just Haven't Met You Yet" by Michael Bublé, "True Colors" by Cindy Lauper, "Smooth Criminal" by Michael Jackson, and many more. It took patience and creativity to learn all of these hit tunes, but in the end, they came out on top.

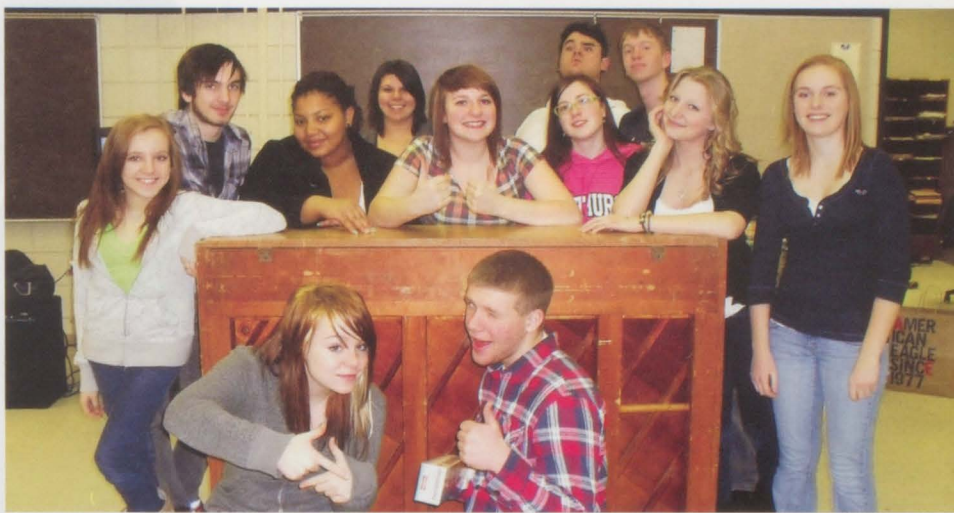

Another very creative and talented musical group was Jazz Band. They were so devoted that they met at 6:30 every morning in the band room before school. Sophomore Zachary Shoen who played bass guitar stated, "I love music in the morning. It helps me wake up." Jazz Band consisted of a few different instruments, including the alto sax, tenor sax, baritone sax, trombone, trumpets and also a electric guitar, bass guitar, drums and even a piano. Put them together and there was a band that worked hard through the early mornings to prepare for their upcoming concerts.

TURN THE KEY

REFRESH THE WORLD

STORY AND PHOTOS BY: LINDSAY DILLER

Students found a great way to start the new school year by joining a club that would make a difference in our community. With both the HOW and Key Club that was possible. They both worked to help the planet and the community.

Working to help the people, Key Club, which was formed last year, offered an experience to give back to the community by donating time to different charities and organizations. This year, members participated in the Polar Bear Plunge, where they raised money that went towards the Kiwanis Club. "My favorite time was the Polar Bear Plunge because we were there helping out and we all had a bit of fun while we were pretending we were in the warm weather," explained Sandra Holloway '12. Members also took part in the Chilly Fest, where they hosted a bed race.

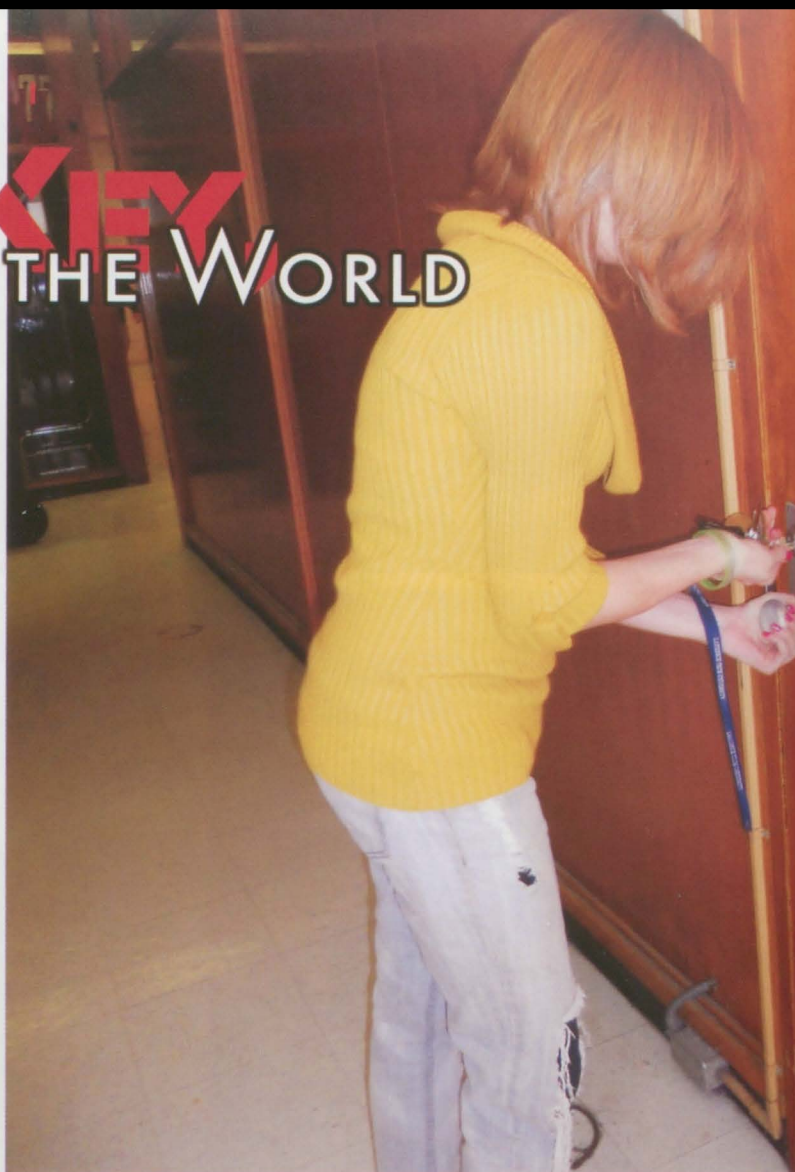

Recycle, refresh, reuse. Those are some thoughts when HOW (Help Our World) group comes to mind. This year, they took on many new obstacles to help the school. Like previous years, HOW participated in the Earth Fair, which was a great time to teach elementary students and others about the school's recycling program and about saving our planet. "I want to help the environment, and get involved in things at my school," said Jessica Bartee '12. Also, this year the club started water bottle recycling in the school. By doing that, the bottles recycled went to a plant and were disposed of properly and made into something else.

The Help Our World Club and Key Club both tried to make a difference in the community and the world by getting students involved and showed them how easy it was to make a difference.

HEAVENLY DEBATE: WORKING OUT THE ISSUES

STORY AND PHOTOS BY: SANDRA HOLLOWAY & SHEENA SERSHA

Every Tuesday and Thursday morning in room 222, is where Port Huron High School's nondenominational Prayer Club met each week. Justin Crews '12 stated that he would recommend this club to everyone, "Because God changed my life and I feel that he can change the world!"

The Prayer Club was a student-led club and had many members. There were many different discussions, ranging from how God changed their lives, or the lives of someone they love, to scriptures from the Bible. Senior Ciara Francisco said, "Everyone is so accepting, you're NEVER judged. It's like having your own support group at school. Not only does this club help strengthen your faith, but I would guarantee every time you will be in a better mood."

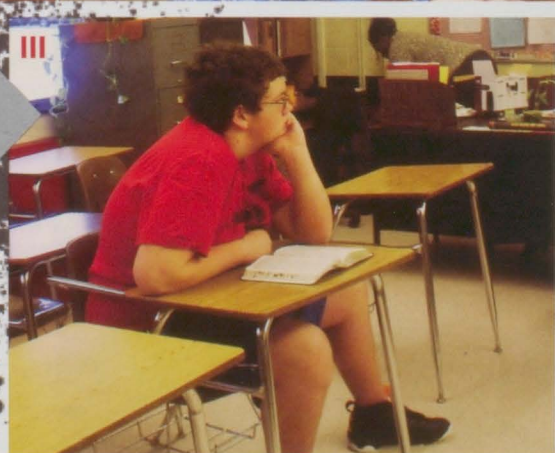

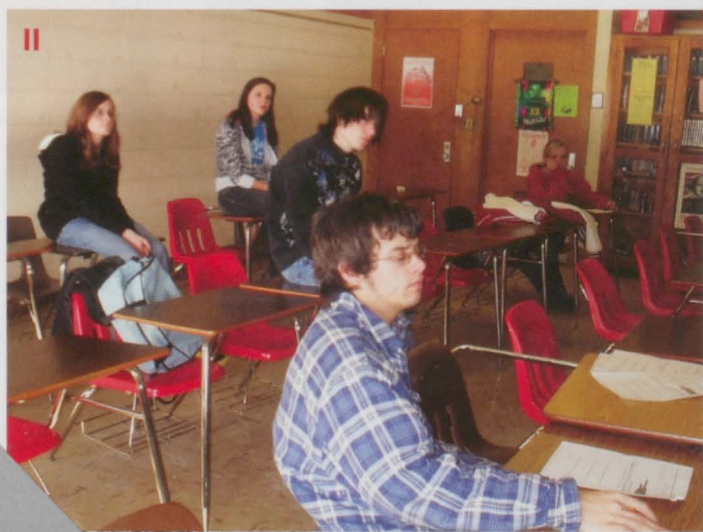

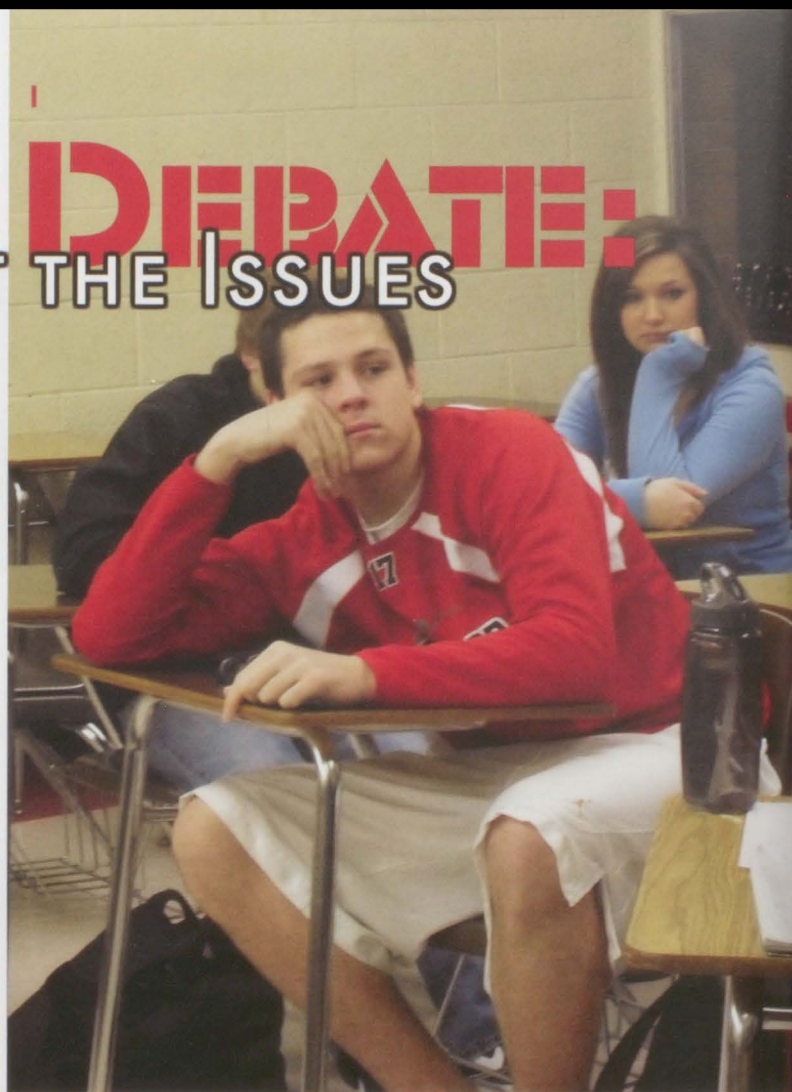

As Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Unless you try to do something beyond what you have already mastered, you will never grow." The newly formed Forensics Club, which dealt with public speaking and debate, was one of the most rewarding and helpful activities available to students. Through Forensics, students learned to think faster, argue better, speak clearly, and to speak with a sense of purpose and style. In addition, Forensics was a beneficial factor on resumes.

Forensics Club helped students gain valuable skills in a few primary areas. Forensics also helped develop academic skills essential to high school and college level work. Students that participated in Forensics were encouraged to improve their study habits and research skills. They were also taught to be open to both sides of an issue and to consider and adapt to different audiences. Port Huron High School graduates with a background in Forensics have the potential to be very successful in the future.

"I THOUGHT FORENSICS SOUNDED INTERESTING, SO I THOUGHT I WOULD TRY IT OUT AND SEE WHAT IT WAS ABOUT."

Dancing their way through the year, the Color Guard and Thunderbirds dance team twirled their flags and kicked up their legs for the audiences. The Color Guard accompanied the Big Red Marching Machine onto the field during the varsity football half-time shows. To prepare for the half-time shows, Color Guard members accompanied the band to camp, where they practiced their routines for a week before the school year started. Family, friends, and community members were always excited to watch the girls and their performances. Though members of the Color Guard only get to perform in the fall during football season, many of them went on to dance with the Thunderbirds.

The Thunderbirds danced on the floor while the people in the stands got fired up. Between dances and competitions the Thunderbirds tried for even more success by practicing three days a week, three hours each day. They performed in front of the whole school and wowed the crowd with their choreography.

The Port Huron High School dance team even had the chance to perform at Ford Field for the Thanksgiving Day football game. Freshman Sundrena Binion noticed "that the stadium does not have real grass." This year was their second time in a row going to Ford Field, and this year they got to dance along with Kid Rock.

Some of girls on the team have been dancing since they were younger, and for some it was their first year. Amanda Ellis '13 said that becoming team captain was her "biggest accomplishment" for the season. Senior Shanice Hill said her favorite part about dancing for the Thunderbirds "is getting to be around people that have the same passion for dance, like she does."

"MY FAVORITE STYLE OF DANCING IS LYRICAL AND I ALSO LIKE HIP-HOP!"

Using IMAGINATION IN BOOKS & GAMES

STORY BY: AMANDA LANGOLF PHOTOS BY: STAFF

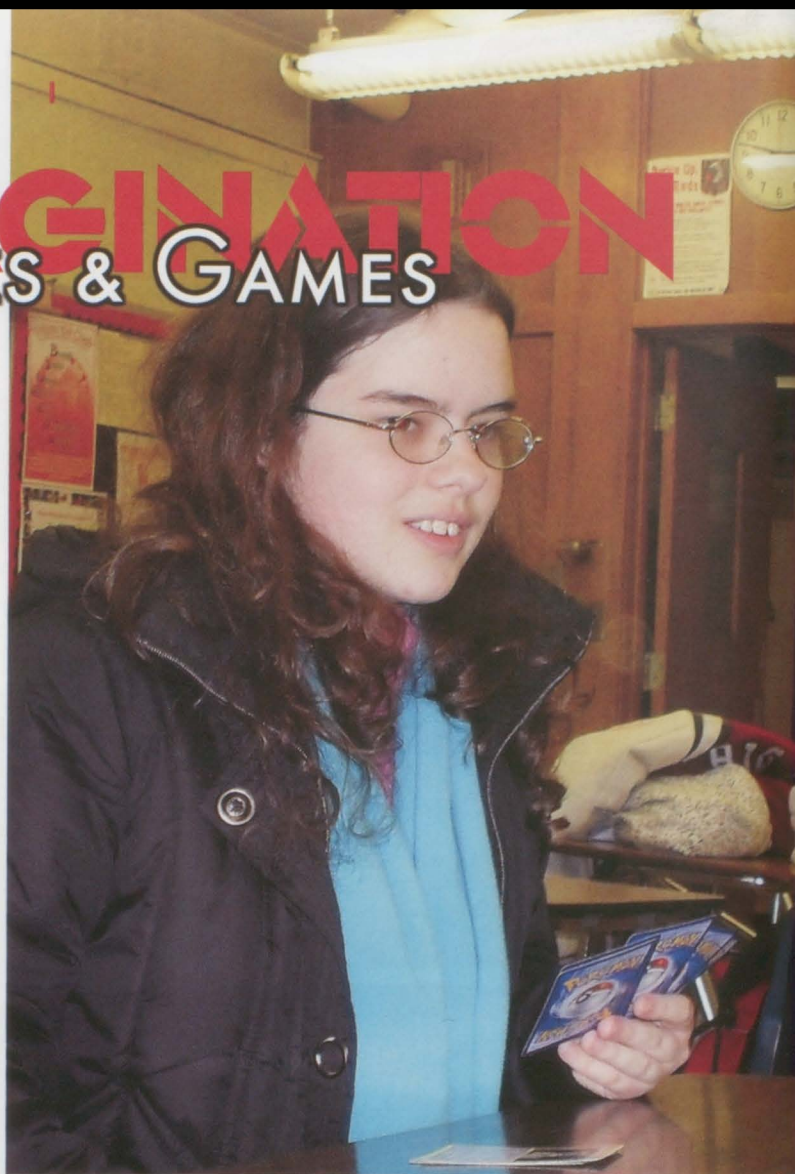

Enjoy reading and discussing stories, willing to open your mind to new literature? Then the Page Turners Club was the club for you! Meetings were held once a month where books that students previously read were discussed and critiqued. Advisor Ms. Denise McCaffrey hosted meetings at her house, Barnes & Nobles book store, and also in her classroom. Every month the group selected a new genre, from science fiction to horror, opening their minds to a variety of reading.

The Page Turners Club participated in the craft show this year by selling used books at low prices. Previously, the Page Turners Club participated in book sales, gift wrappings, and donating books to ill children in hospitals.

Senior Lina Lu explained her reasoning behind joining the book club, "I joined the group because I really enjoy reading and discussing books with intellectual people, if I weren't going off to college I'd certainly join again next year."

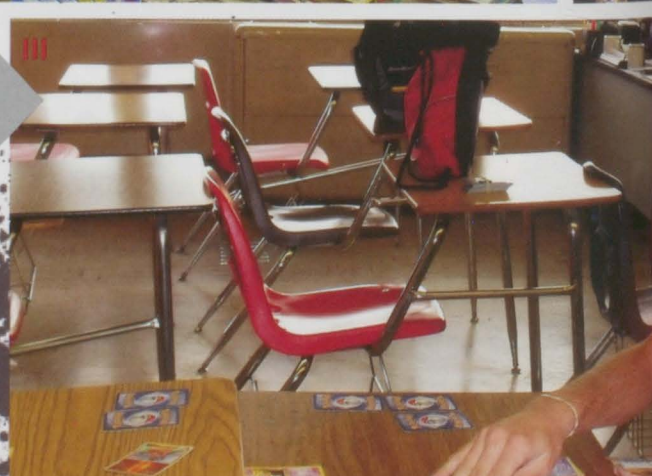

Along with The Page Turners, Port Huron High had many extracurricular programs to offer, including the unique Pokémon Club. The Pokémon Club was for any and all students interested in the collectible trading card game. Meetings were held in Mr. Harris's room after school on Mondays. Shelby Gonzales '11 said, "I like how Pokémon Club gives us a chance to hang out and be nerdy with our friends."

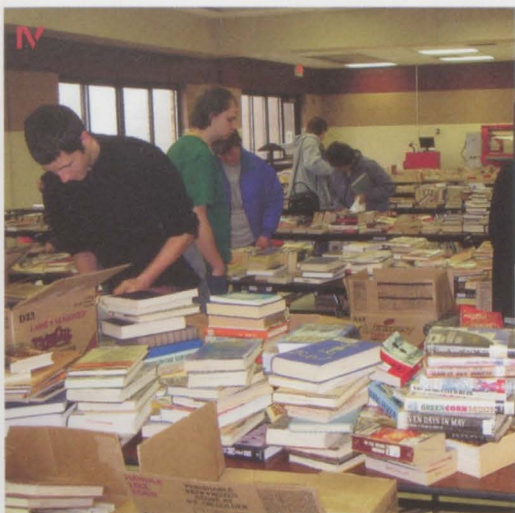

At meetings, students dueled each other, fighting with their Pokémon until they "passed out". Some club members brought their Game Boys and Nintendo DS's so they could trade Pokémon through the popular videogames. The search for the best Pokémon never seems to stop like the Pokémon character Ash says, "You gotta catch 'em all."

"I JOINED THIS BOOK CLUB BECAUSE I ENJOY READING QUITE A LOT."

-RAIELYNN GREEN '13

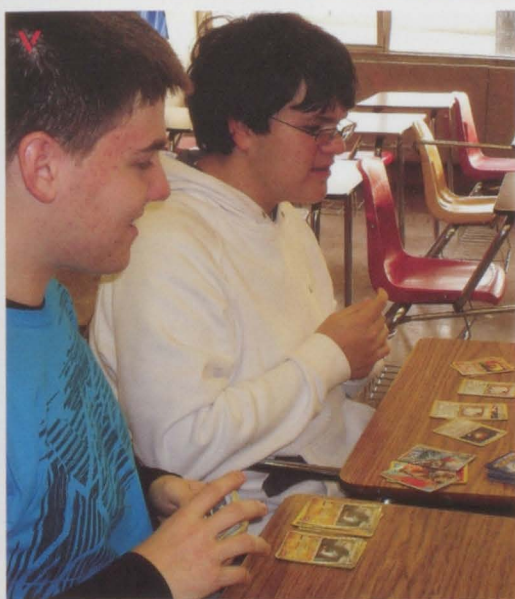

I. Enjoying another fun day at Pokémon Club, Amelia Hanschu '13 holds her trading cards in satisfaction, ready to battle her with intensions to win.

II. Two club members, Ariana Strieter '11 and Cassie Erdman '13, help out with The Page Turners' annual used book sale.

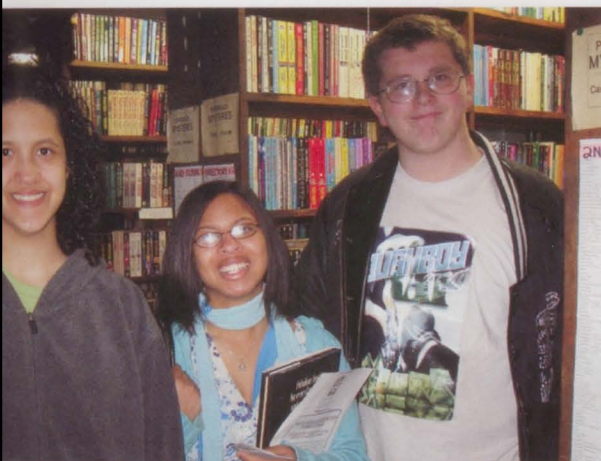

III. After school, Travis Hill '11 gets himself involved in an exciting game of Pokémon, opening his mind to a whole other world of imagination and fantasy.

TAKING STEPS TO HEALTHY DECISIONS

STORY BY: LINDSAY DILLER & JAMIE KOEBKE PHOTOS BY: NATALIE MAINGUY

Helping kids get fit in elementary school is a great way for them to use these skills later in life. Students at Port Huron High School participate in a program that has the students drive from PH to their elementary school and do exercises with them for a program called Fun Fitness.

One Fun Fitness member senior Tarshawna Bell explained that, "Fun Fitness is a program for 5th grade students to try to become healthy and my job is to help them with that and also think positive." The elementary schools that participate in this are Cleveland Elementary on Monday's, Indian Woods Elementary on Friday's, Kimball Elementary on Monday's, Woodrow Wilson Elementary Tuesday's, and Roosevelt Elementary on Wednesday's. Having the high school students participate with the elementary students it gives the younger kids a healthy role model to look up to.

S.A.D.D. or Students Against Destructive Decisions is a group that gets together every Friday after school in Mrs. Jody Catalanotte's room. Jason Graham explained the purpose, "SADD thinks of how to share with everyone the dangers of bad choices." They discuss how to improve the community and make students aware of drinking and driving, drugs, texting behind the wheel, eating disorders, and relationship abuse.

Each year S.A.D.D. does a car accident awareness month. During that month they put out statistics of car related deaths, and how it pertains to high schoolers. There is also a day where about 80 students dress in all white and they cannot talk, also a student and/or teacher dresses as the grim reaper, and "kills" the students to symbolize the loss of high school students lost from car crashes.

"I LOVE SEEING THE KIDS GET EXCITED. THEY SEEM TO REALLY LOOK UP TO US, AND IT FEELS GOOD BEING A GOOD INFLUENCE."

LAW & CRIMINAL: YOU'VE BEEN SERVED

STORY BY: JOSEPH STIER & KAYLA BROCKITT PHOTOS BY: LINA LU

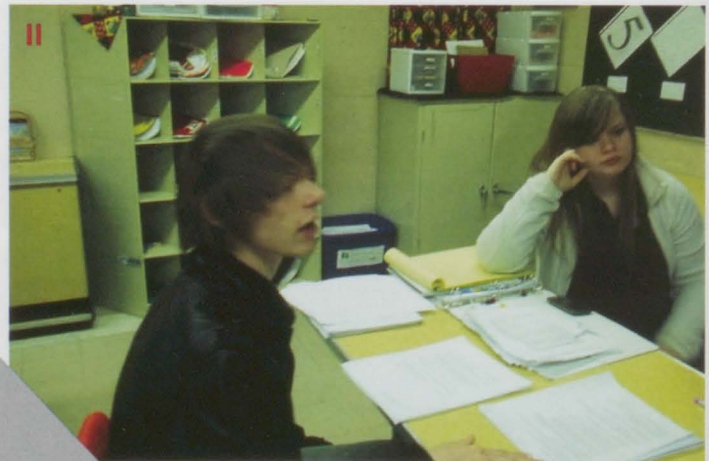

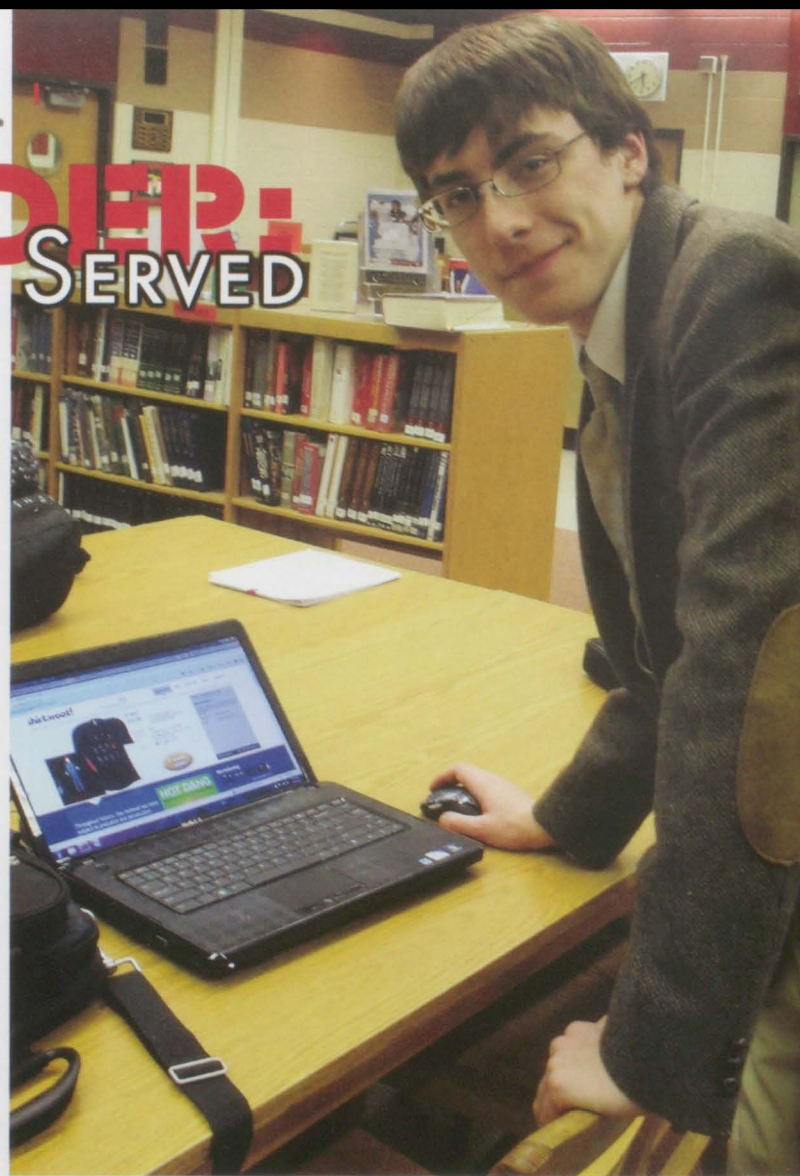

"OBJECTION!" is what was heard by those that happened to pass by room 223 every Tuesday and Thursday after school. "We have two meetings every week where we practice non-stop," said Samantha Harris '12.

Ten members made up the defense and plaintiff sides of the team, with three lawyers and witnesses on each side. For this year's competition, the team worked on a case that was focused on cyber stalking. In addition to having a team coach, Mock Trial also has a lawyer coach that assists with putting their cas together.

At the end of the season, Mock Trial members had the opportunity to go to the courthouse and perform the trial in front of a judge and a mock jury made up of actual lawyers. "My favorite part of Mock Trial is being in the courtroom during a competition and getting to drill your cross witness," said junior Hope Thompson.

With three years of experience, returning adviser Mrs. Laura Mitchell led the team to achieve first place at the sixth annual St. Clair County competition, which was organized by Judge Cynthia Platzer and held at the Port Huron Court House. "When I'm in front of the judge, my heart beats fast, I get a kick out of it that I really enjoy," stated Aubrey Biga '12. In addition to their first place win, junior Joshua Kenny tied for second place in Best Direct Examination and juniors Aubrey Biga and John Sienkiewicz both won portrayal awards.

The Mock Trial team went on to regionals in Grand Rapids at the Kent County Court House. While there, the team placed fourth out of fourteen schools, and also received an honorable mention.

One thousand, five hundred fifty-three students roamed the halls of Port Huron High School this past year. Some were athletes. Some were musicians. Some were socialites. Yet all of these students could call themselves Big Reds.

These students animated the classrooms and hallways with new styles, new attitudes, and a refreshed outlook on life. Seniors focused on graduation, juniors studied hard for the ACT/MME tests, sophomores earned a little bit of freedom by taking drivers training, and freshmen adjusted to the new world of high school life.

Excelling in activities like volleyball, marching band, and academics, the Big Reds showed immense pride in their work. Brightening the school, students brought new ideas to their extracurriculars, both clubs and sports.

Throughout the year, one thousand, five hundred fifty three Big Reds left their mark in the hallways, in the trophy cases, and on the lives of others. Refreshed and reinvigorated, seniors anticipated the new chapter in their lives, while underclassmen prepared themselves to return in the fall.

CLASS OF 2011

STORY BY: SHELBY GONZALES PHOTOS BY: LINDSAY DILLER & KAYLA BROCKITT

The seniors of Port Huron High School started the year off with success. Students from the class of 2011 dominated the homecoming games assembly, winning first place over the other classes. The seniors followed up their assembly victory with a first place win in float building, marking the class of 2011's third first place win.

Members of the class of 2011 had achievements in other areas of the school as well. Senior varsity football players helped the team reach the playoffs for a consecutive year. The varsity volleyball team's senior captains assisted their teammates in a second place districts win. Though they didn't make it to districts, the seniors on the girls varsity basketball team had enough skill to win the MAC championship.

Not only did seniors shine in athletics, but they also excelled in both academics and extracurriculars. Many seniors were represented at the 3.5 Assembly. The seniors on the Mock Trial team helped it get to regionals in Grand Rapids and senior members in the National Honor Society aided cancer research by raising money for the Relay for Life.

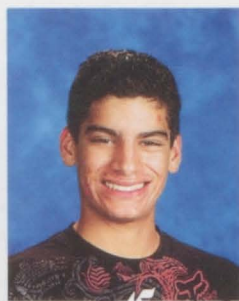

Though it may not have been always evident, every senior had a milestone this past year. Big or small, every little thing helped make the class of 2011 the best class there is.

I. Seniors brought a breath of life to their classes, for example, Jonathon Crawford, Angel Doan, and Michael Gossman II got silly during their Psychology class.

II. Senior boys varsity basketball players, such as Tahj King, played their hardest throughout the season, and helped the team make it to districts.

III. Sitting tall and pretty, the girls on the senior homecoming court, Nicole Corbin, Shelby Conard, and Emily Ledbetter, are escorted through town by Thomas Jones and Bryan Hanson.

NICOLE ASHLEY HARDY

You were my daughter from the start, Not from the womb, but purely from my heart. We had our ups and downs as you discovered who you were. I am so very thankful I was there to watch your transformation from a three-year old toddler to the beautiful young woman you are today. You are an inspiration to everyone you meet with your positive attitude toward life and your kind, caring nature. We have shed some tears over the years, but it is laughter I remember the most. Nicole you are my hero. I love your princess. Congratulations.

Love Debbie

Nicole,

Let me start by saying, Daddy loves you! I am so very proud of you. You have turned into a lovely young lady. You are always trying to do the right thing and are always thinking of other people's feelings. I feel blessed to be your father. I know the future is both exciting and scary to you at times, just remember I will always be there for you. No matter how old you get, you will always be Daddy's Little Girl. Hats off to you Nicole.

Forever Yours, Daddy

EMILY MAINGUY

Emily,

From the day you were born, you have brought us MORE happiness and joy than words can describe. We are so very proud of all your accomplishments, your dedication and attention to detail will help you to follow your dreams.

Our love forever, Mom & Dad

P.S. Love You. From Nat

We wish you all the best in the future.

CATHERAND THORNSBERRY

I can't believe my little girl is all grown up, you went from being a sweet little baby to a beautiful young lady. Love you.
-Nana & Grandpa

Daddy teaching you to drink from a straw. You were so proud of yourself you kept wanting to do it, either that or you just liked the chocolate malt, cuz you drank all of it!

HOLLI DIANE O'NEIL

You and Nana at Sharky's Pier in Venice Florida. Nana says that she is very proud of you that you are graduating, it is a big accomplishment. And to tell you she loves you and that you are very beautiful and she can't wait until you move down to Florida after graduation.

The day you were born when I first layed eyes on you, the first words that rolled off my lips were "my Bella Angel." Because you were so beautiful! I was so thankful that Jesus has blessed me with this beautiful Angel. So from May 26th 1993, I've called you "my Bella." When you were 2 I dressed you for Halloween as my "Bella Angel." To this day you still have that exact smile, expect you only use it when you want something- and since I adore my Bella it still works when you use it!

Bella, today as we enter into the PAC at PH as you close one door by graduation from Chippewa Middle School, soon to be a freshman at Port Huron High in the fall of 2007. The beginning of a whole new exciting chapter in you life! One of which will be a big important, memorable, one you will want to make it special for you will remember these next for years for the rest of your life. They will form who you will become...I have faith in you. You have common sense. ENJOY YOUR HIGHSCHOOL YEARS TO THE FULLEST CREATE ALL THE WONDERFUL MEMORIES THAT YOUR HEART DESIRES!

Bella, Mom wants to thank you for doing cheerleading freshman year. I figured it out that you did it for me when you gave me the ultimatum that either I cut your hair in layers or you will quit cheerleading I figured it out then. That showed you had a big heart. So when you told me the next year you really didn't want to do it cuz it was to time consuming I didn't mind...you did it. Plus seeing you as a "Flyer" scared me to death!! So I was definitely okay with you quitting. But you were a "Cute" cheerleader!! THANKS HONEY.

Mommy's Best Girl! My most important "maid of honor" ever! Since Butch was not my 1st husband I had other maid of honors. But you were truly the special one! I Never loved any man like I love Butch...So as I always tell you if you feel the love, excitement, nerveness, scared, happy all mixed into one as I felt the day you were my best maid of honor, then you know you are marring the man you will love Forever, and that is my dream for you. Thank you For being such a meaningful part of the happiest day of mom's life. Bella!

To my sister, Holli,

"The most beautiful discovery true friends make is that they can grow separately without growing apart..." We've been close as sisters sharing good and hard times since 5th grade. We've always been a constant in eachothers lives even when we'd be doing our own thing. I know when we go our separate ways after graduation we will still be sisters as always! I love you, Shelby

Holli,

Well you have been my step daughter for almost ten yrs. I've raised you for more than half your life. It's been crazy at times. We've had our ups and downs, but things are so much better. I'm proud to see that you have graduated high school. Congratulations! Love, Butch your step dad.

Holli Diane (Bella), Just want you to know how proud I am of you, how much your graduation means to me. Most kids finish high school, its true, but sometimes I just like to make a fuss! What can I say I love you! even tho when we wrote alot, the love we've always felt has come into its very special own, and so I feel your pride, without your loyal mother at your side. go enjoy graduation day, the honor is ALL yours, I have the rest of my life to be your proud mother. Always remember tho...

I will like you for always
I love you forever
As long as I'm living,
my Bella you will Be

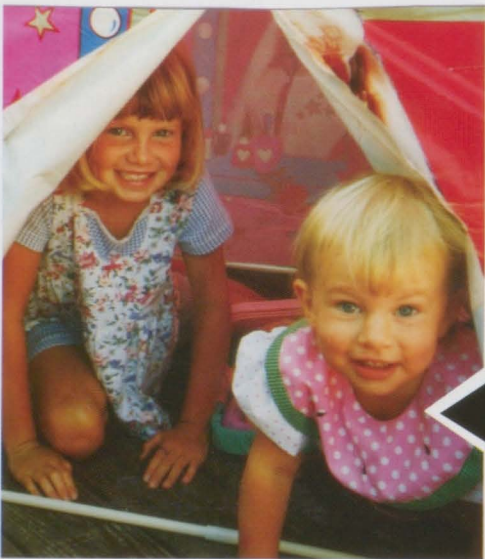

KELLEY BIETTEN

I can't believe you're graduating. You have grown up so fast. Kelley we are so proud of you. You've grown into a wonderful young woman. Remember just do what you love and love what you do. And you will always be happy.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Being a class officer is not just a "fancy title", it's about working with the entire class to benefit the group as a whole. As the class officers of 2012 planned for graduation next year, they kept their fellow classmates busy by putting on fundraisers, designing class t-shirts, and planning for the senior prom.

III. Ms. Mary Williamson and Jonathon Gaffney '12 decorate the weight bench to be used for Rocky's birthday gift during tech week.

IV. Senior Ryan Urban, senior Dina Weidner, and sophomore Sandra Holloway practice singing "Sweet Transvestite" with other Phantoms.

Rocky Horror Show was an audience participation musical that the Port Huron Civic Theatre put on to coincide with Halloween. Though the show was made of mostly an adult cast it also featured some Big Reds. "It was a great experience to let your inner-creep loose," explained Paige Precour '13. The show was on stage for three days, but had four amazing shows. According to Ms. Mary Williamson and the rest of the cast of the Rocky Horror Show, the most enjoyable thing was "The Time Warp number, of course!"

What extremes would you go through to raise money? This year, the psychology class braved hypothermia by doing events such as The Polar Bear Plunge. The Polar Bear Plunge is an event which is hosted by the Kiwanis Club of Port Huron where some of the community leaps, plunges, or runs out into the frigid waters of Lake Huron. All of the money raised is given to the March of Dimes, Help and Hope, and other organizations. The Polar Bear Plunge was just one of the activities that the class participated in. The class did many fundraisers to help prevent child abuse. Some fundraisers included supporting the kids by walking from Lakeside Beach to Birchwood Mall. On top of doing the walking, students asked for pledges and any donations. The class all together raised hundreds of dollars. It's great to see classes giving back to the community!

I. By raising money through pledges, students in Ms. Meyers psychology class helped support the community roof sit.

II. At Lakeside Beach, Alexis Howe '12 and Adriana Jordan '12 pose with Ms. Meyers for a picture before entering the Polar Bear Plunge.

III. Students supported the prevention of child abuse by holding a huge sign and walking from Lakeside beach to Birchwood Mall.

I. Senior Jessica Smith won third place in photography with her photo of a shadow.

II. At the festival, senior Chelsea Sherman displayed a Chuck Close painting.

III. Erin Lensmeyer '13 won third place for her mermaid sculpture at the festival.

IV. For her computer art project, Abigail Kostanecki '12 won second place.

Many Port Huron High students poured their hearts out onto paper, poster board, and anything else they could find in their Art or English classes. At the end of the year, they entered it into the Fine Arts Festival. The art work was displayed in the Performing Arts Center and was judged by prominent Port Huron artists. Students won prizes and awards for their excellent talent. The festival celebrated the different mediums of art and expression, and some entries included mosaics, poetry, stipple, digital media, ink, and photography.

"We're the best PH has seen, we're the class of twenty thirteen!" Increasing class involvement and raising as much money as possible was a mutual goal among the sophomore class officers for the year. To reach this goal, the officers held fundraisers and encouraged their classmates to participate.

I. Listening intently, Silas Prey '13, Jarron Rooks '13, and freshman Marcus Brown pay attention to Mr. Horne as he goes over the rules of the road.

II. Sophomore Graham Prout gives an all systems go as he waits for Mr. Horne so he could begin his driving lesson.

The price of freedom is $249.00; the exact amount for drivers training, segment one. Young drivers had to go to drivers training Monday through Thursday for three weeks to get their permit. "The drivers training teacher's cool and funny," Jarron Rooks '13 says about Mr. Horne who taught the class in room 221.

When it came to driving, Ellie Flaherty '13 said, "I was very nervous for my first drive. Once, I didn't realize the speed limit changed so I was going WAY faster then I should have been." To finally get a license, young drivers needed to complete segment two for three days at a cost of $35.00. After students pass their road test and turn 16, they can finally stop depending on their parents to drive them around everywhere.

Our first time ever at PH, there was the Spirit of Christmas contest! It was a fun and creative way to see who really had the most Christmas spirit, sponsored by Positive Behavior Support. Assistant principal Mr. Jeff Dennis, and teachers Mrs. Deb Werth and Mr. Robert Ross were the judges, and they took pictures of all the contestants and picked the ones that had the best costumes. Freshman Katlyn Sienkiewicz stated, "I was inspired to dress up, simply to unleash my inner penguin"

Registration for the contest only costed a dollar. The group that sponsored the event, PBS, is the one that is behind the pride cards and supporting good behavior at school. Many students came to school decked out in tinsel and ribbon and were even dressed as snowmen, Christmas presents, Christmas trees, and, of course, Santa Claus.

I. Showing Christmas Spirit, John Sienkiewicz '12 models his "Rocking Santa" costume for the Spirit of Christmas contest.

II. Winners of the PBS contest pose for a picture by the school christmas tree. The Spirit of Christmas winners were chosen by staff members.

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

"I ran for vice president because I wanted to help make a difference in our school," said Elizabeth Manoyian. The officers spent countless hours helping their school by assisting with the homecoming float, fundraising, collecting dues, and gathering items for the canned food drive.

I. Formerly known as the Foreign Language hall to most upperclassmen, this area is now a part of the hallways occupied by freshmen.

II. Once the math wing, this hall is now home to freshmen who participate in the digital grant program.

The class of 2014 experienced something different than what most new freshman experience when coming to Port Huron High. This year, our school made the decision to make the majority of the freshmen classes all in one hallway. This verdict made it easier for the freshmen to maneuver throughout the building. Not only was it easier for the freshmen to get to class, but they got used to the new environment without getting overwhelmed. Katelyn Kinzel agreed that having classes in the same area made it easier. "It makes it easier to get to classes on time and have time to stop at your locker." Although the freshmen made it to their classes easier, they had to experience more difficult classes. Katlyn Sienkiewicz stated that "tests are worth a big percent of your grade, so it is very important to study." Many of the freshmen see eye to eye when they hear the question "What is the biggest difference between high school and middle school?" When asked this question, Haley Kielbas replied with five words: "More people, and more freedom."

CONGRATULATIONS CLASS OF 2011!

AND AS ALWAYS, GO BIG REDS!

Letters from the EDITORS

It has been an interesting four years being a member of The Student staff. From silly inside yearbook jokes to deadline crunches, I've loved almost every minute of it. A special thanks needs to be given to Travis McBride and Jazmyn Thomas for teaching me everything I know about yearbook, to Zauner for being the best advisor there is, and to Tomhave for stepping into her shoes. Emily and I have put hours of work and pride into this book, and I hope you enjoy remembering the memories as you flip through the pages that we shed blood, sweat, and tears over. I'd like to give a special shout-out to Jeff, Ian, Jamie, Kayla, and Sarah for sticking by me all these years. And to all the students in Big Red Country: thanks for the memories.

Shelby Gonzales

REFRESH is the 106th volume of Port Huron High School's yearbook, The Student. It was produced by the thirty students of the second hour class and a few after-school staffers in rooms 138 and 220.

Five hundred seventy five books were made, each containing 208 pages of full color. All photos, with the exception of sport team photos, the senior class photo, the BRMM group picture, and student mugs, were taken by PH students with digital cameras.

The cover is a glossed custom lithograph. It was designed by Kayla Brockitt with Adobe Photoshop. All layouts were designed by Shelby Gonzales and Emily Mainguy.

The fonts used were Denise, and the Function font family. The book was printed by Jostens in Topeka, Kansas. The trim size is 8.5 by 11, with 80 pound paper stock.

Josten's Yearbook Avenue Designer was used to make the book. It allowed the staff to work on the yearbook at school, as well as at home. After numerous years in room 220, the yearbook class was moved to the computer lab in room 138.

The Student is a member of the National Scholastic, American Scholastic, and Michigan Interscholastic Press Associations. Last year's book, Redefined, was rated Gold by Michigan Interscholastic Press Association.

After 25 years under the direction of Mrs. Mary Jane Zauner, The Student yearbook staff was guided by Mrs. Elizabeth Tomhave for the first time.

This year was definitely refreshing...haha get it...anyway it was definitely a challenge to make a yearbook without last year's seniors. They were a major influence and I know Shelby and I missed them but we made it without them and made a pretty good yearbook! Not only did it take blood, sweat, and tears...it also took late nights, weekends, days off, deadline stress, drama, and reconfigurations but we made it through all of them to make this book and I hope you like it! I would like to say thanks for all the encouraging words from my family - my sister Natalie, and all of my friends. I also hope that when you look back at this yearbook years from now that you will remember the good times.

Varsity volleyball team members, Jade Rhone '12 and Taylor Johnston '11, stand ready for the ball. The team had a successful season, placing second in the MAC championship.

Rooting for their team, freshmen football cheerleaders take to the field, clapping, cheering, and pumping up the energy for the crowds.

The fine arts were evident at PHHS, especially during the Fine Arts Festival. Senior Lee Jones showed his creativity by creating a Native American glass mosaic.

With a year full of memories, it would be hard not to recollect, reminisce, and remember all of the moments that came with being a Big Red. From multiple MAC championship victories, to academic successes, there were many triumphs to be remembered at Port Huron High School. Remember the chaos of ACT/MME week, the craziness of Big Red Wave, the thrill of drivers training, and most importantly, the anticipation of throwing a red or white cap into the air at graduation.

Take a moment and review a year that refreshed the lives of students, staff, and the school. Student athletes, scholars, musicians, and socialites rejuvenated their pride during the PH vs. PHN Assembly, stimulated their mind in classes such as AP Statistics and Chemistry, restored their strength in softball and wrestling, enlivened their connections in organizations like Prayer Club and S.A.D.D., and vivified themselves by making refreshing life changes. The year was made memorable with changes at school, such as the new all freshmen wing, and with changes in the world, like the earthquake and tsunami crisis in Japan.

New sports jerseys, new clubs, new students, and new staff helped refresh the daily life at Port Huron High School. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen all left their mark on the school in their own way. Now take a moment and go back through the pages of this book and recollect a year filled with laughter, tears, triumphs, and changes.

Sophomore JV soccer players, Justin Bonney and Adam Runnals, worked their hardest throughout the season, and helped the team come away with four wins.

Students that took Anatomy participated in the dissection of a cat. Senior Jesse McNeill-Garza goes over the parts of the head with his partner.

Underclassmen gather in the bleachers during the 3.5 Assembly. Juniors, sophomores, and freshmen sit up above and watch as those with the required GPA are honored.

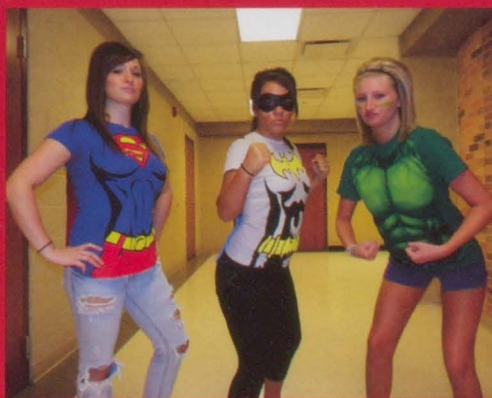

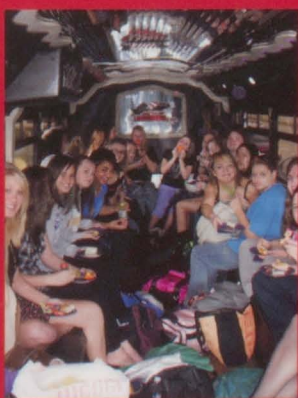

Earning a little bit of freedom, many students, like Marcus Brown '14 and Graham Prout '13, spent afternoons with Mr. Ron Horne in the drivers training classes.

The Jazz Band was a mainstay in activities this year, with many students, such as trumpet player Joshua Daniels '14, joining because of their love of music.

Before gracing the stage, students from Ms. Denise McCaffrey's performing arts class gather together in the dressing room for a quick photo opportunity.

RECOLLECT The Year

The PHHS Thunderbirds, led by junior Sydni Sopha, start off the marching through the halls during the pep assembly for the PH vs. PHN football game.

The girls on the Red Dawgs swim team, made up of both PH and PHN students, travel by charter bus to the MAC Blue Divisional.

Showing their spirit and strength, seniors Michelle Porcaro, Ciara Francisco, and Jordan Hunt make a fearsome threesome for Three Musketeers Day.

At the girls varsity basketball game, sophomore and junior boys get up in the stands and show their school spirit by dancing for the crowd.

REFRESH

Pep Band members play their instruments during both boys and girls varsity basketball teams during the winter sports season.

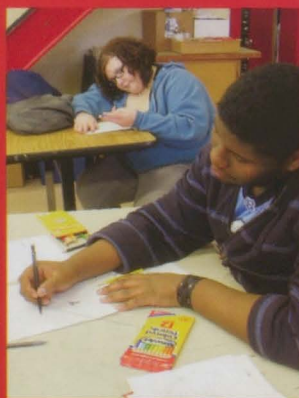

The Red Cross Blood Drive brought out numerous students, those that were of age, who were willing to donate blood for a good cause.

208 CLOSING

The student Tribe of PHHS joins to support the boys basketball team during the PH vs. PHN game. Many students showed up in pink in support of breast cancer.

Elective classes remained as popular as ever, with many students taking the art classes offered. Stephanie Creech '11 and Terrill Jones (Grimmett) '12 work on their sketchbooks.

Equestrian team member Meghan Ski '13 practices her barrel runs with her horse. The varsity equestrian team went to many competitions this year.
